SAYINGS

OF THE

PROPHET MUHAMMAD

EDITED AND TRANSLATED

From the Original Arabic

WITH AN INTRODUCTION

BY MÎRZÂ ABU'L-FADL

I said, 'What is Islâm?' The Prophet said, 'Purity of speech and hospitality.' I said, 'And what is faith?' He said, 'Patience and beneficence.'

—'Amrû b. 'Abasah, AH.

A man said, 'O Prophet of God! what is (the mark of) faith?' The Prophet said, 'When thy good work gives thee pleasure, and thy evil work grieves thee, thou art a man of faith.' The man said, 'And what is sin?' The Prophet said, 'When anything smites thee within thyself, forsake it.'

PREFACE.

SINCE the publication in 1809 of Captain A. N. Matthews' English translation of the Mishkâtul-Masâbih there has been no serious attempt to present in English a complete collection of the sayings of Muhammad as handed down by tradition. The patient labour of the learned translator has been justly appreciated, though his Persian commentator has very often misled him and made his translation anything but accurate. Moreover, it is now long since out of print.

The present work is an humble endeavour to bring together, in English, a number of the sayings of "the Great Arabian" scattered in an endless number of Collections of Arabian Traditions. The Translation is throughout from the Original, and also gives, in the case of each individual saying, the name of the original reporter as also, the Collection or Collections in which it has found a place.

It is hoped that the present volume will form a Companion to the Translator's new English Qur'ân, which together may help in the diffusion of correct Islâmic ideals in the East as in the West, and thus lead to a better understanding between the followers of Islâm and those of any other creed.

In conclusion, I have to offer my cordial thanks to that enlightened Princess, Her Highness Nawâb Sultân Jahân Begam, C.I., G.C.S.I., G.C.I.E., Ruler of Bhopal, for a liberal contribution, and for the opportunity of literary leisure which she has afforded me for working on this field.

INTRODUCTION.

THE traditions,¹ in Arabic ahâdîth,² about the Prophet Muhammad, are a record of what he said and did, and what was done in his presence.

The following from the Prophet will best explain the position which he intended to assign to his uninspired sayings :

"I am only a man : when I bid you anything in respect of the affairs of your religion, receive it, and when I give you anything as my opinion, then I am only a man."³

On one occasion when his view regarding the engrafting of plants had proved mistaken Muhammad frankly said :

"Verily, I only gave (it) as (my) opinion, do not then catch me up for (my) opinion ; but when I tell you anything of God, receive it, for verily I would never tell a lie against God."

The earliest compilations on the subject are al-Qadâyâ, of 'Alîy⁴ son of Abû-Tâlib, and another of Ibni 'Abbâs,⁵ written within a few years of the Prophet's death.⁶ But these were subsequently enlarged by Ibni Shihâb a'z-Zuhrîy, who was set to work by 'Umar b. 'Abdu'l-'Azîz,⁷ who also appointed Abû-Bakr al-Hazamîy to Still later came Abû-Bakr b. Abû-Shaybah, of Kûfah, and Imâm Mâlik,³ who brought out well-arranged collections of traditions. The following, among others, are some additional names which have contributed strongly towards the subject:

But there are no more popular compilations on the subject than the following well-authenticated collections of traditions, known by the names of their compilers, which together are termed the "Six Correct Books :"

It must be mentioned at the outset that the traditions about Muhammad were, all of them, transmitted orally, and as time rolled on many things were given out in the name of Muhammad by well-meaning preachers and designing ecclesiastics, of which the Prophet was wholly innocent. Muhammadan doctors, therefore, have approached the subject variously, in order to know a saying of the Prophet from one given under his name, and in their hands the subject has developed into a system of philosophy.

They have distinctly laid down that a genuine tradition must indispensably possess the following character :—

1. It must have been plainly mentioned that such-and-such a thing was said or done by the Prophet.

2. The narrator must have stated that he was present and saw or heard the same uttered by the Prophet, or, in the case of his being removed by distance of time or place, he must have given the complete chain of narrators from the last link up to the Prophet.

3. It must be proved that each one of the narrators did actually meet him from whom he derived his information.

4. Each one of the narrators, from the last up to the Prophet, must have been a person conspicuous for his piety, virtue, and honesty ;

5. Each one of the narrators must have been conspicuous for his learning, so that he might safely be presumed to be competent both to understand correctly and deliver faithfully to others what he had heard.

6. It must also be proved that each one of the narrators, at the time he heard the tradition narrated, was of an age at which he was competent to understand the full import of what he heard.

Muhammadian doctors have noted against each one of the narrators —

(i) His name, nick-name, title, parentage, occupation ;

- (ii) Whether he has told a lie in relating any tradition from the Prophet ;
 - (iii) Whether he was accused of any crime or was known to have been a liar ;
 - (iv) Whether he frequently made blunders ;
 - (v) Whether he was careless in relating traditions ;
 - (vi) Whether he was wicked in word or deed ;
 - (vii) Whether he spoke from imagination ;
 - (viii) Whether he spoke against reliable persons ;
 - (ix) Whether he was an ignorant man or a fool ;
 - (x) Whether he held any peculiar views on religion ; and
 - (xi) Whether he had a bad memory.¹

Numerous floating traditions have thus been condemned as so many invented lies when they have been found (i) to be contradictory to the plain words of the Qur'ân, or the authentic traditions of the Prophet, or the consensus of the learned ; or against reason and commonsense, and against every-day experience ; or (ii) which bear threats out of proportion to the gravity of the offence, or (iii) which promise a reward out of proportion to the good done, or (iv) which speak in terms of extravagant praise or condemnation of certain individuals or sections, and (v) which speak of sectarianism.¹

In the case of a spurious tradition the doctors have taken care to record—

- (i) Whether it was invented by the narrator.
- (ii) Whether it was borrowed from other sages or people,
- (iii) Whether it was based upon another spurious tradition,
- (iv) Whether it was owing to the narrator's scepticism,
- (v) Whether it was ignorance on the part of a fond or pious devotee,
- (vi) Whether it was religious bigotry,
- (vii) Whether it was to pander to the taste of, or to please or flatter, an aristocracy, or
- (viii) Whether it was only to seek popularity.²

Muhammadan doctors have been at pains to ascertain whether the narrator has only given the sense of what he heard or the actual words of the Prophet, and unless in the case of a man who is proved to have been conspicuous for his learning and integrity of character, this deviation is looked upon with suspicion and the matter wholly condemned.³

² Ibni Hajar, Nuzhat

³ Cf. A'n-Nawawī, Introduction.

Muhammadan doctors have even compiled volumes of spurious traditions to put the students on guard against the same. Among them the most noted are the works of Ibni Janzîy, Ibni 'Abdu'l-Barr, 'Alîy al-Qârîy, and Shaukânîy. It is greatly to the credit of the Muhammadan divines that in their critical study of the traditions they spared neither the Caliph, the Commander-in-Chief, nor the Cadi, nor the very venerable pious saint; publicly exposing them where they were at fault in respect of traditions. It is recorded of Bukhârîy that he had travelled hundreds of miles from his native city in order to collect sayings of the Prophet from a certain pious, learned man. Arrived at his door, he actually saw the man making signs to his horse, that had been grazing at a distance, with an empty meal-bag, to come to him. Bukhârîy at once concluded that the man was false, and sooner than stay a moment longer, left the place immediately.

Muhammadan doctors repudiated with scorn the authority, in tradition, of Muhallib b. Abû-Sufrah, of the 'Umayyade Court,¹ Ahmad Jo'ibârîy, Ibni 'Ukkâshah, of Kirmân, Ibni Tamîm, of Faryâb,² Ibni Abû-Yahyâ, of Madînah, Wâqidîy, of Baghdâd, Maqâtil b. Sulaymân, of Khurâsân, Muhammad b. Sa'îd, of *Syria*³—all otherwise very pious and learned—and condemned them as impious forgers of lies in the name of the Prophet.

² Sahl b. a's-Sarrîy in Ta'dhîr.

³ Ibni Khallikân.

Hundreds and thousands of learned men, afterwards known as Muhaddithes, spent their lives in the cause of this pious research; they travelled from place to place, met those who narrated the traditions, made a critical study of their lives; made minute inquiries into the details of the lives of those who were dead before them, from those who actually saw and talked or lived with them.

This was the making of tradition (hadîth) in Islâm by the process known as Asmâ'u'r-Rijâl (biography); which has preserved in the early history of Islâm the lives of 1,00,000¹ individuals, with all the details that go to make a true biography.

The earliest work that appears to have been written on the subject of Asmâ'u'r-rijâl was by Yahyâ b. Sa'îd al-Qattân; after which followed the works of 'Uqaylîy, Ahmad b. 'Abdu'l-'Ajalîy,² 'Abdu'r-Rahmân b. Hâtim a'r-Râzîy,³ Dâraqutnîy, and Ibni 'Adîy—which form the groundwork of subsequent compilations. Of these the best known and most authentic is the Tahdhîbu'l-Kamâl, of Yûsuf b. Zakîy (better known as 'Allâmah Mizzîy),⁴ the work of 'Alâ-'u'd-dîn Mughaltâ'îy,⁵ in 13 volumes, and that

OF THE

PROPHET MUHAMMAD

There is no Muslim* who performs (his) ablution,¹ and performs it well, and then stands up and offers a short prayer, being also present (at it) with his heart and his person,² but paradise becomes his due.

—Uqbah b. ‘Âmir, MU: AB: TI: NA.

. . . And if, after ablution, he stands up and prays to God as is His due, his heart also joining him, he comes out (pure) from faults as on the day when his mother gave him birth.

—Amrû b. ‘Abasah, MU.

[3]

The Prophet recited, ‘And he whom God desires to guide, He opens his breast to Islâm*,’³ and said, ‘When light enters the breast, it becomes cheerful.’ It was said, ‘O Prophet of God! is there any mark by which it may be known?’ The Prophet said, ‘Yes; keeping away from the abode of deception⁴ and turning to —Ibni Mas'ūd, BA.

No servant (of God) looks upon the world² with indifference, but God also makes wisdom to grow into his heart, and makes his tongue speak by it, and shows him the vices of the world and its diseases, and its remedies, and carries him safely through it to the Abode of Peace.

—Abū-Dharr, BA.

Wearing coarse, hard cloth, and eating coarse food is not abstinence from this world; abstinence from this world is only shortness of desire.

—Sufyān a'th-Thaurī, BG.

[6]

Abstinence from the world is not forbidding what is allowed, nor wasting wealth, but abstinence from the world is that thou be not with what is in thy hands,³ but hold more firmly to what is in the hands of God.⁴

—Abū-Dharr, TI : 1B.

[7]

Whoso desires to seek the hereafter⁵, God will place in his heart independence from Himself, and will collect for him His hosts, and the world will come to him inspite of itself.

² The pleasures of this life.

³ The transient joys of this world. ⁴ The felicity of life eternal.

⁵ The life eternal as distinct from the transient joys of this world.

[8]

Three men came to the wives of the Prophet and asked concerning the devotional services of the Prophet; but when they were informed of these, they made, as it were, little of them, and said, 'Where are we in respect of the Prophet of God, for God has already pardoned him what sins he has committed, first and last?' Then one of them said, 'As for me, I will pray all night long for ever;' the other said, 'I will fast all day long for ever, and will not eat;' the third said, 'I will separate myself from women, and will not marry for ever.' Afterwards the Prophet came out to them, and said, 'Ye are they who said such-and-such (things), but by God! I do certainly dread God more than you all, and fear Him most (among you); but as for me, I fast and eat (also), and I pray (at night) and sleep (also), and I (also) marry women: whoso then is averse to my example, he is not of me.'

—Anas, BU: MU: NA.

'Uthmân b. Maz'ûn had vowed to stand up in prayer all night and to fast all day long, for ever, and never to marry women. —RA.

The Prophet sent (word) to him, saying, 'Art thou averse to my example?' He said, 'No, by God! O Prophet, I seek (to follow) thy example.' The Prophet said, 'Verily I sleep (at night) and I pray also, I fast and I eat also, and I also marry women. So fear God, O 'Uthmân! for verily there is a duty on thee to thy people, and verily there is a duty

—'Ā'ishah, AB.

The Prophet was told that I had said, 'By God! I will surely fast all day long (for ever), and I will surely stand up (to pray) all night long (for ever).' He said, 'Was it thou who didst say (a thing) like that?' I said, 'Yes, I said that, O Prophet of God!' The Prophet said, 'Thou art certainly not able to do that; so keep fast and eat also, and stand up (to pray) at night and sleep also; fast three days of a month: that will be like constant fasting.' I said, 'But I am able to do more than that.' He said, 'There can be nothing better than that;' and added, 'Thou knowest not whether haply thy life will be prolonged (and thy system for ever impaired), for if thou do that thine eyes will sink (into the sockets) and thy spirits will become weak, and no one has kept fast who fasted always.'

We were with the Prophet when a man came up: upon him was a carpet, and he had something in his hand which he had wrapped up. He said, 'O Prophet of God ! as I was coming to thee, I passed through a wood of trees and therein heard the voices of the young of birds, and I took them up, and put them into my carpet. Then their mother came fluttering round my head: I uncovered the young for her, and she fell down upon them and joined them; then I wrapped them up in my carpet; and here are the young ones which I have.' The Prophet said, 'Put them down from thee.' Then he put them down: their mother remained with them, and refused to be without them. The Prophet said to his companions, 'Do ye wonder at the affection of the mother towards her young ones ?' They said, 'Yes, O Prophet of God !' The Prophet said, 'By Him who has raised me up with the truth ! God is more loving to His servants than the mother-bird to her young ones. —Abû-Sa'îd, BU: MU: AB: NA.

God says: 'Expend (in alms), and I will expend upon thee.' Both the hands of God are full; expending night and day does not affect Him. Have ye considered? how much must He have spent since He created the heavens and the earth. Yet? verily, what is in His hands is not affected.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU: TI.

[96]

O son of Man! that thou give with thine own hands the superabundance (of thy wealth) is better for thee, and that thou withhold it, is bad for thee;—though thou art not to blame for a sufficient subsistence;—and begin with him who is of kin (to thee).

[109]

When God created the earth, it shook and trembled, then God laid stable mountains upon it, and it rested. Then the angels marvelled at the strength of the mountains, and said, 'O our Lord! hast Thou created a stronger creation than the mountains?' God said, 'Yes, iron, for it breaks them.' They said, 'And hast Thou created a stronger creation than iron?' He said, 'Yes, fire, for it melts it.' 'And hast Thou created a stronger creation than fire?' they asked. 'Yes, water, for it quenches it.' 'And hast Thou created a stronger creation than water?' 'Yes,' said God, 'the wind, for it sets it in motion.' They said, 'And hast Thou created a stronger creation than the wind?' God said, 'Yes, the child of man when he gives alms with his right hand and hides it from his left.'

—Anas, TI.

[110]

The people of the Prophet's house killed a goat. Then they gave away portions to the poor, so that there remained only a portion thereof. The Prophet asked, 'What remains thereof?' They said, 'Nothing but the shoulder.' The Prophet said, 'Nay, all of it remains except its shoulder, for the reward thereof is eternal.'

[204]

Whoso sets a good example in Islâm,* shall have a reward thereof, and the reward of him who shall act according to it after him, without in any way detracting anything from the latter's reward; and whoso sets a bad example in Islâm, shall bear the burden thereof and the burden of him who shall act according to it after him, without in way detracting anything from the latter's burden.

—Jarîr, MU: NA.

[205]

Faith descended at the root of the hearts of men, then came down the Qur'ân, and (people) learnt from the Qur'ân and from the example (of the Prophet).

—Hudhayfah, BU: MU: TI.

[206]

Certain companions of the Prophet said, 'We find within ourselves something which one of us would think it a great sin to speak of.' The Prophet said, 'Do ye indeed find it to be so (very grievous)?' They said, 'Yes.' He said, 'That (shows) the purity of faith.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU: AB; cf. Ibnî Mas'ûd, MU.

[207]

A man asked, 'O Prophet of God! what is (the mark of) faith?' The Prophet said, 'When good work gives thee pleasure, and thy evil work grieves thee, thou art a man of faith.' The man said, 'And what is sin?' He said, 'When anything smites thee within thyself, forsake it.'

—Abû-Umâmah, AH.

[208]

I asked the Prophet about the best (part of) faith. He said, 'That thou love for God, and hate for God, and make thy tongue act in mentioning God, and that thou love for men what thou lovest for thyself, and hate for them what thou hatest for thyself.'

—Mu'adh b. Jabal, AH.

[209]

The best (part) of faith is to say, 'There is no God but God,' and the least of it is to remove all injurious things from the (public) road.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[210]

Three things are at the root of faith: withholding hands from (injuring) him who says, 'There is no God but God;' calling him neither Kâfir* for any of his sins, nor turning him out from Islâm for any one of his works.

—Anas, AB.

[211]

There are three things by which any one who possesses these in him shall taste the sweetness of faith, namely, whoever loves God and His apostle more than anything besides them; whoever loves a servant (of God) only for (the sake of) God; and whoever is averse to return to infidelity after that God has saved him from it even as he would be averse to be flung into the fire (of hell).

—Anas, BU: MU: TI: NA.

Whoso loves for (the sake of) God, and yet becomes an enemy for (the sake of) God, and gives (what he has) for (the sake of) God, and yet, withholds for (the sake of) God, he has perfected (his) faith.

—Abû-Umâmah, AB; Mu'âdh b. Anas, TI.

[213]

Faith is a restraint against all violence; let no Mu'min* commit violence.

—Abû-Hurayrah, AB.

[214]

By Him in whose hand stands my life! no servant (of God really) believes until he loves for his brother what he loves for himself.

—Anas, BU: MU: TI: NA.

[215]

He has (really) no faith who fulfils not his trust, and he has (really) no religion who fulfils not his promise.

—Anas, BA.

[216]

None of you (really) believes until he holds me dearer to him than his father and his son and all mankind.

—Anas, BU: MU: NA.

[217]

I said, 'What is Islâm*?' The Prophet said, 'Purity of speech and hospitality.'

I said, 'And what is faith?' He said, 'Patience and beneficence.'

I said, 'Who is the best in (point of) Islâm*?' He said, 'He from whose tongue and hands the Muslims* are safe.'

I said, 'And what is the best (part of) faith?' He said, 'A kindly disposition.'

I said, 'O Prophet of God! what is the best Hijrat*?' He said, 'That thou fly what thy Lord hates.'

I said, 'And what is the best prayer?' He said, 'A long-continued piety.'

—'Amr ib. 'Abasah, AH.

[218]

There is almsgiving for everything, and the almsgiving for the body is fasting.

—Abû-Hurayrah, IB.

The Prophet said, 'O 'Abdu'llâh! I have been told that thou dost fast (all) day and standest up to pray (all) night' I said, 'Yes, O Prophet of God!' He said, 'Then do not do (like that). Keep fast and eat also, stand up (to pray at night), and sleep also; for verily there is a duty on thee to thy body, and verily there is a duty on thee to thine eyes, and verily there is a duty on thee to thy people, and verily there is a duty on thee to thy visitors; and nobody has kept fast who fasted always: (a fast of) three days in every month is (equal to) constant fasting; so fast three days in every month.'

—'Abdu'llāh b. 'Amrū b. al-'Ās, BU: MU; cf. 'Ā'ishah, AB: RA.

When ye keep fast, oil your face, so that people may not know that ye are fasting.

—BU.

[220]

How many men fast who have nothing of fasting but thirst, and how many men stand up (to pray all night) who have nothing of prayer except keeping awake!

—Abū-Hurayrah, DĀ.

[221]

He who does not abandon the speaking of falsehood and the doing (of things) like that, God has no need of his leaving off his food and his drink.

—Abū-Hurayrah, BU.

[222]

It is no good that ye fast while on a journey.

—Jābir, BU: MU: AB: NA.

[223]

Verily, God has relieved the traveller of half (his) prayer, and has given him leave to break (his) fast; and He has also given leave in respect thereof to the sick and the woman who gives suck to a child, and to the pregnant woman, when they fear (a harm) to their child.

—Anas b. Mālik, AB: TI: NA: IB; cf. 'Amrū b. Umayyah a'd-Damrī, NA.

Whenever the Prophet saw Fātimah (his daughter) he would welcome her, and rising from his seat would kiss her, and then taking her by the hand would seat her in his own seat.

—Ā'ishah, BU.

Whoso has a female child and does not bury her alive, nor holds her in contempt, nor prefers his male child above her, God will make him enter into paradise.

—Ibni 'Abbās, AB.

A woman, with her two daughters came to me begging (alms). I found nothing with me except a ripe date which I gave her. She divided the same between her two daughters, and ate not thereof herself; she then went away. Afterwards the Prophet came to me, and I told him of it. He said, 'Whoso is put to trouble on account of these daughters, and yet treats them well, it shall be to him a protection against the fire (of hell).'

—Ā'ishah, BU: MU: TI.

[226]

Whoso brings up two girls, so that they reach their age (of strength), shall come on the day of resurrection—I and he together; (here the Prophet put together his two fingers).

—Anas, MU.

[227]

Whoso brings up two girls, so that they reach their age (of strength), I and he shall enter into paradise together; (here the Prophet made a sign by putting together two of his fingers).

—Anas, TI.

[228]

—Abû-Sa'îd, AB: TI.

[229]

Shall I tell you of the best act of charity? (It is to be charitable) to thy daughter who has been returned to thee,¹ and has none to earn for her except thyself.

—Surâqah b. MALIK, IB.

[230]

Verily, God is jealous; and verily the Mu'min* is also jealous. The jealousy of God is that the Mu'min* should (at all) come in for what God has forbidden him.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: TI.

When a sin is committed in the land, and he who is present at it is averse (to it), he shall be as he who is absent therefrom; and he who is absent therefrom, but pleased with it, shall be as he who is present at it.

—'Ars b. 'Umayrah al-Kindî, AB.

[232]

When the children of Israel fell into sin, their learned men forbade them, but they desisted not; then they sat with them, and ate with them, and drank with them; then God struck

¹ Widowed, divorced, or destitute, upon their hearts, one of them upon another, and cursed them through the tongue of David. By Him in whose hand stands my life! unless ye inspire (men) with sympathy due (for the truth), thou shalt have done nothing.

—Ibni Mas'ūd, AB: TI.

[233]

Ye shall surely be helped, and ye shall attain great excellence, and ye shall conquer; whoso then among you finds that, let him fear God, and bid what is reasonable, and forbid what is wrong; and whoso tells a lie against me purposely let him find his seat in the fire of hell.

—Ibni Mas'ūd, AB.

[234]

Those who have been before you only perished for that when a high-born man among them stole they let him go unpunished, and when the weak among them stole, they stood over him to punish him. By God! if it were Fâtimah, the daughter of Muhammad, who stole, I would surely cut off her hands.

—Ā'ishah, BU: MU: AB: TI: NA.

[235]

Whoso of you sees wrong, let him undo it with his hand; and if he cannot (do it), then let him speak (against it) with his tongue; and if he cannot (do this either), then (let him abhor it) with his heart—and this is the least of faith.

—Tāriq b. Shihāb, MU: AB: TI: NA.

There has been no prophet whom God raised up among his people before me, but had among his people apostles and companions who received his example and followed his bidding; then, verily, after them, came a generation who said what they did not, and who did what they were bidden not (to do). Whoso then strives against them with his hand, is a Mu'min*, and whoso strives against them with his tongue, is (also) a Mu'min, and whoso strives against them with his heart, is (also) a Mu'min, but beyond that there is no faith of (the weight of) a grain of mustard seed.

—Ibni Mas'ud, MU.

[237]

When people see the wrongdoer, and do not seize him by the hand, God would well-nigh chastise them all alike. There is no people among whom a sin is committed, who have the power to undo (the same), and undo (it) not, but God would well-nigh chastise them all alike.

—Qays b. Abû-Hâzim, AB: TI.

By Him in whose stands my life bid what is reasonable, and forbid what is wrong, or He will certainly send against you a chastisement from Him; then will ye call on Him, and He will not answer you.

—Hudhayfah, TI.

‘Help thy brother, the wrong-doing and the wronged,’ said the Prophet. ‘I will help him,’ said one, ‘when he is wronged; but how can I help him when he is doing wrong?’ ‘Hinder him from doing wrong,’ said the Prophet, ‘and verily that is helping him.’

—Anas, BU: TI.

Let none of you be stupid (enough) to say, ‘I will be with men: if men do good, I will do good, and if they do evil, I will do evil;’ but rather so exercise yourselves that if men do good, ye will do good, and if they do evil, ye will avoid doing evil to them.

—Hudhayfah, TI.

[241]

Verily, it is better that the leader should err on the side of forgiveness rather than that he should err in punishing.

—‘Ā‘ishah, TI.

Moses said, ‘O my Lord! who is the most honoured of Thy servants in Thy sight?’ God said, ‘He who pardons when he has the power (to avenge himself).’

—Abū-Hurayrah, BA.

[243]

I found this inscribed on the hilt of the Prophet’s sword: ‘Forgive him who wrongs thee; join him who cuts thee off; do good to him who does evil to thee, and speak the truth although it be against thyself.’

—‘Ally, RA.

[244]

A man came to the Prophet, and said, 'O Prophet of God! how many times should I forgive a servant?' The Prophet kept silent. The man repeated the question thrice. 'Forgive thy servant seventy times every day,' said the Prophet.

—Ibni 'Umar, AB: TI.

[245]

The Prophet gave me a gift, whereupon I said, 'Give it to him who is poorer than myself.' The Prophet said, 'Take it, and keep it as (thy) wealth, and give alms out of it; for what comes to thee of this wealth whilst thou dost not covet (it), nor beg, take it; and what is not (like this), let not thy soul pursue it.'

—'Umar b. al-Khattâb, BU: MU.

[246]

It is not lawful for a man to make a gift or to grant a donation, and then retract the same, unless it be a parent in the matter of what he or she has given to his or her child. He who retracts his gift or donation is like the dog who licks up his own vomit.

—Ibni 'Abbâs and Ibni 'Umar, AB: NA: IB.

[247]

God says: I am with the thought of My servant concerning Me; and I am with him when he remembers Me, and when he remembers Me within himself, I remember him within Myself; and if he remembers Me in public, I remember him in a public better than themselves.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU: TI.

God says: Whoso comes with a good work, shall have ten like to it, and I will also give more; and whoso comes with an evil work, the reward thereof is evil like to it, and I also pardon; and whoso draws near to Me a span, I draw near to him a yard; and if he draw near to Me a yard, I draw near to him a fathom; and if he come to Me walking, I come to him running; and whoso comes to Me with an earth full of sins, but associates nothing with Me, I come to him with an equal front of forgiveness.

—Abû-Dharr, MU; cf. Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU: TI.

God will say to him who will be the best among the people of (hell) fire in respect of torment, 'If thou hadst all the world, wouldst thou redeem thyself thereby?' The man will say, 'Yes.' God will say, 'But I desired of thee an easier thing than this even while thou wast in the loins of Adam, namely, that thou do not associate (any one) with Me, and I will not make thee enter into (hell) fire, and I will make thee enter into paradise; but thou didst refuse.'

—Anas, BU: MU.

[250]

God says: My servant continues to draw near to Me by voluntary services, so that I love him; and when I love him, I become his hearing whereby he hears, and his sight whereby he sees, and his hands wherewith he seizes, and his feet wherewith he walks. And if he asks of Me, I give him, and if he betakes himself to Me, I give him refuge.

—Abū-Hurayrah, BU.

God says: O My servants! I have forbidden Myself wrong, and have made the same unlawful among you; do not ye then wrong one another. O My servants! all of you will go astray unless he whom I guide aright; ask guidance of Me then, and I will guide you aright. O my servants! ye are, all of you, hungry, unless he whom I feed; so ask food of Me, I will give you food. O My servants! ye are, all of you, naked, unless he whom I clothe; so ask cloth of Me, I will give you clothes. O My servants! ye do sin at night and in the day, and I pardon all sins; ask pardon of Me then, I will pardon you. O My servants! ye can never come up (to Me) to hurt Me, nor can ye come up (to Me) to benefit. O My servants! if your former and latter generations, and your men, civilized and uncivilized, were according to the most pious heart of any one man among you, that would not add anything to My Kingdom. O My servants! if your former and latter generations and your men, civilized and uncivilized, were according to the most wicked heart of any one man among you, that would not detract anything from My Kingdom. O My servants! if your former and latter generations, and your men, civilized and uncivilized, stand in any one vast plain and ask Me, and I give to every man what he asks, that would not detract anything from what I have with Me, except what a needle detracts when it enters into the ocean. O My servants! I only count these your works for you, then will I give you fully your reward. Whoso then finds good, let him thank God Almighty, and whoso finds anything beside that, let him not blame any but himself.

—Abū-Idris al-Khawlānī, MU: TI.

If ye rely upon God as He ought to be relied upon, He will provide you as He provides the birds: they go out empty and hungry in the morning and come back big-bellied at eventide.

—Umar, TI.

[253]

The hand of God holds all: expending ails Him not: He expends night and day. In His hand is the balance which He presses and raises.

—Abū-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

Verily, God sleeps not, and it is not fit for Him to sleep: He presses (the balance) down and raises it; to Him is taken up the work of the night before the work of the day, and the work of the day before the work of the night.

His veil is Light; were He to remove it, the brightness of His Face would surely burn (all) His reation so far as His sight extends.

—Abû-Mûsâ, MU.

[255]

There is none more patient at the hurtful things which he hears than God: they call (some) His son, and yet He keeps them safe and provides them (in life).

—Abû-Mûsâ al-Ash'arî, BU: MU.

God says to His angels, 'When a servant of Mine resolves to do an evil deed, do not write it down until he has done it; then write it down against him as one (sin); but if he leave it for My sake, write down for him a good deed; and when he resolves upon a good deed, and does not do it, write down for him a good deed, but if he do it, write down for him ten to seven hundred good deeds.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU: TL.

[257]

Whoso bears witness that there is no God but God, his heart being sure of it, give him the glad tidings of paradise.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

[258]

Two things are certain: whoever dies while he associates anything with God, shall enter the fire (of hell); and whoever dies, not associating anything with God, shall enter paradise.

—Jâbir b. 'Abdu'llâh al-Ansârî, MU.

The best of sayings is, 'There is no God but God!'

—Abū-Hurayrah, BU: MU: AB: TI: NA.

[260]

The key of paradise is the bearing witness that there is no God but God.

—Mu'adh b. Jabal, AH.

I said, 'O Prophet of God! who will be the most fortunate among men to obtain thy intercession on the day of resurrection?' The Prophet said, 'The most fortunate among men to obtain my intercession on the day of resurrection will be he who says, "There is no God but God," with the purity of his heart.'

—Abū-Hurayrah, BU.

Whoever says, 'There is no God but God,' and believes not in what is served beside God, God has made his wealth and his blood inviolate, and his account (devolves) upon God the Most High.

—Tāriq al-Ashja'iy, MU.

[263]

There is no servant (of God) who says, 'There is no God but God!' and then dies on it, but will enter paradise.

—Abū-Dharr, BU: MU.

Dost thou know, O Mu'adh! what is the right of God against His servants, and what is the right of the servants (of God) against God?

Verily, the right of God against His servants is that they serve Him, and not associate anything with Him; and the right of the servants (of God) against God is, that He punish not him who associates nothing with Him.

—Mu'adh, BU: MU.

[265]

Whoso dies while he knows that there is no God but God, will enter paradise.

—Uthmān b. 'Affān, MU.

[266]

The best of actions is to love for (the sake of) God, and yet hate for (the sake of) God.

—Abû-Dharr, AB.

God accepts only what is good.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[268]

—Abû-Sa'īd al-Khudrī, TI.

[269]

(All) creation is the family of God, and the most beloved of (all) creation to God is he who does good to His¹ family.

—Anas and 'Abdu'llāh, BA.

[270]

O Abû-Dharr! treat not with contempt anything good, although it be to meet thy brother with an open countenance.

—Abû-Dharr, BU: MU: TI; cf. Jābir, TI: AH.

And, verily, it is an act of goodness that thou meet thy brother with an open countenance, and that thou pour water out of thy bucket into thy brother's vessel.

—Jābir, TI.

[272]

Once upon a time a man walked in the streets and found the branch of a tree full of thorns lying on the road, which he threw away; whereupon God was thankful to him and pardoned him (his sins)

[273]

Feed the hungry, visit the sick, and free the captive.

—Abū-Mūsā, BU: AB.

[274]

Whoso makes a gift of milk or money (to the poor), or guides the misguided and the blind into the way, shall have (a reward) like that of a man who frees a captive.

—Barā', TI.

God will say on the day of resurrection, 'O son of Man! I was sick, and thou didst not visit Me;' the man will say, 'O my Lord! how could I visit Thee when Thou art the Lord of all the world?' God will say, 'Didst thou not know that such an one of My servants was sick, and thou didst not visit him? Didst thou not know that if thou hadst visited him, thou hadst surely found Me with him?' God will say, 'O son of Man! I asked food of thee, and thou didst not feed Me.' The man will say, 'O my Lord! how could I feed Thee when Thou art the Lord of all the world?' God will say, 'Didst thou not know that such an one of My servants asked food of thee, and thou didst not feed him? Didst thou not know that if thou hadst fed him, thou wouldst surely have found that with Me?' God will say, 'O son of Man! I asked drink of thee, and thou didst not give Me to drink.' The man will say, 'O my Lord! how could I give thee to drink when Thou art the Lord of all the world?' God will say, 'Such an one of My servants asked drink of thee, and thou didst not give him to drink; verily, if thou hadst given him to drink, thou hadst surely found that with Me.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

Whoso seeks refuge for God, give him refuge; and whoso asks for God, give him; and whoso calls on you, respond to him; and whoso does good to you, return the same to him; and if ye do not find anything to return to him, pray (to God) for him, until ye see that ye have made (him) an ample return.

—Ibni 'Umar, AB: NA: AH.

[277]

Know that the man who lends his she-camel to the people of a family, who milk her every morning and evening, shall, verily, have a great reward.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

[278]

There is not one of you but his Lord will speak to him, and there shall be no interpreter between him and God; and he shall look to his right, and he shall see no other than what he has sent on before (him), and he shall look to his left, and he shall see no other than what he has sent on before (him); and he shall look before him, and shall see no other than the fire (of hell) which shall meet his face. So fear the fire (of hell), although it be by (giving) a ripe date (in alms); and whoso finds not (even this to give), then let him save himself by a good word.

—‘Adly b. Hâtim, BU: MU: TI: NA.

Nothing keeps away the decree (of God) except prayer, and nothing increases the life (of man) except goodness; and man is only denied the provisions (of life) because of sins upon which he falls.

—Thaubân, IB.

Good thoughts are (parts) of good worship.

—Abû-Hurayrah, AB: AH.

[281]

‘Be straightforward, and draw near (to God), keep to the golden mean, and preach and act, but know that none of you shall be saved by works merely,' said the Prophet, 'And neither thou, O Prophet of God?' He said, 'Neither myself; unless that God cover me with mercy from Himself.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU; cf. Jâbir, MU.

[282]

If a servant (of God) fell upon his face from the day of his birth until he died, being weak from old age, in the obedience of God, He will despair him for that on the day of resurrection, and he shall wish that he could return to the world, so that he could have more of reward and recompense.

—Muhammad b. Abû-'Amrah, AH.

If the Mu'min* knew what punishment there is with God (for what wrong he has done), none would long for His paradise; and if the Kâfir* knew what mercy there is with God, none would despair of His paradise.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[284]

The Prophet said, 'When God desires good for (His) servant, He makes him do good.' It was asked, 'And how does He make him work, O Prophet of God?' He said, 'He assists him in doing good works before his death.'

—Anas, TI.

I said, 'O Prophet of God! tell me what is the mark of God in him whom He likes, and what is His mark in him whom He does not like.' The Prophet said, 'How dost thou find thyself, O Zayd?' I said, 'I love good and the doer thereof; and if I have the power to do it, I hasten thereto; and if I miss the same, I grieve it, and weep over it' 'Then,' said the Prophet, 'that is the mark of God in him whom He likes; and if He had chosen thee for anything beside that, He would have prepared thee for it.'

Verily, the grave is the first stage of the (many) stages of the hereafter.

—'Uthmān, TI: IB.

[288]

Not a day passes but the grave says: 'I am the strange dwelling, I am the lonely dwelling, I am the dwelling of dust, I am the dwelling full of worms.'

—Abū-Sa'īd, TI.

[289]

Visit the graves, for verily these will make you indifferent to the world and remind you of the hereafter.

—Ibnī Mas'ūd, IB.

The Prophet visited the grave of his mother, and wept, and made those who were around him weep, and said, 'I asked permission of my Lord that I may ask pardon for her, but it was not permitted me ; and I asked permission of Him to visit her grave ; which He has permitted me. Visit the graves then ; for these will remind (you) of death.'

—Abū-Hurayrah, MU.

[291]

Take care ! those who were before you took the graves of their prophets and their righteous men for places of worship. Beware ! do not ye take the graves for places of worship ; I forbid you that.

—Jundub, MU.

Sit not upon graves, nor pray towards them.

—Abū-Marḥad al-Ghanawī, MU.

[293]

O God ! make not my [grave an idol to be worshipped ; severe the wrath of God upon the people who take the graves of their prophets for places of worship !

[300]

O God! he who is made a guardian over the affairs of my people in anything, and becomes troublesome to them, be Thou troublesome to him; and whoso is made a guardian over the affairs of my people in anything, and is kind to them, be Thou kind to him.

—‘Ā‘ishah, MU.

[301]

There is no governor who rules (his) Muslim subjects and dies, having also played false with them, but God will forbid him paradise.

—Ma‘qil b. Yasār, BU: MU.

The worst of governors is the cruel herdsman.

—‘Ā‘idh b. ‘Amrā, MU.

The tyrant shall not enter into paradise.

—‘Uqbah b. ‘Āmir, AB: AH: DĀ.

[304]

When the governor seeks for suspicion among (his) people, he brings ruin upon them.

—Abū-Umāmah, AB.

[305]

When thou dost follow up the vices of (thy) people, thou wilt bring ruin upon them.

—Mu‘āwiyah, BA.

[306]

Verily, a monarch is God’s shadow upon the earth: all God’s servants who are wronged take refuge in him; then when he does justice, he has a reward (with God), and upon (his) subjects is (enjoined) gratitude; but when he is tyrannical, upon him is (his) sin, and upon (his) subjects is (enjoined) patient perseverance.

—Ibni ‘Umar, BA.

[307]

O my child! I have heard the Prophet of God say that, verily, the worst of shepherds is the tyrant.

—Ma‘qal b. Yasâr, MU.

The best of jihâd* is of him who speaks a just word before a tyrannical authority.

—Abû-Saïd, TI: AB: IB; Târiq b. Shihâb, NA: AH.

God says: I am God—there is no God besides Me: I am the King of (all) kingdom, and the King of (all) kings; the hearts of kings are in My hands; and verily when My servants obey Me, I change the hearts of their kings to them with mercy and kindness; and verily when My servants sin against Me, I change their hearts with anger and chastisement, and they inflict the direst punishments upon them; do not then occupy yourselves with cursing (your) kings, rather occupy yourselves with the remembrance (of Me) and humility (towards Me), that I may suffice you against your kings

—Abû-Dardâ‘, NA.

[310]

Ye will presently see after me exploits and affairs which ye will hate. They said, ‘What then do ye bid us do, O Prophet of God ?

The Prophet said, 'Give them their due, and ask God for your due.'

—Ibni Mas'ūd, BU: MU.

[311]

As ye will be, so will be those who shall be put in command over you.

—Yahyā b. Hāshim, from Yūnus b. Abū-Isḥāq, from his father, BA.

The Prophet gave a boy the option to go with his father or his mother ; the boy preferred going with his mother, and took hold of his mother's hand ; whereupon the mother went away with him.

—Abū-Hurayrah, AB: TI: NA.

A woman came to the Prophet, and said, 'Verily my belly served as a receptacle for this my son, and my breast served as a skin-bag for him (to drink out of), and my bosom served as a refuge for him ; and now his father has divorced me, and he (also) desires to take him away from me.' The Prophet said, 'Thou hast a better right to have him so long as thou dost not marry again.'

—Amrā b. Shu'ayb, AB.

The services of a guest at night are binding upon every Muslim* ; whoso then alights in the morning in his courtyard, upon him there is a debt : if he please, he may demand, and if he please, he may leave him.

—Abū-Karīmah, AB.

‘O Prophet of God! there is a man who does not regard in me the right of a guest when I am on a journey, should I then perform my duty to him by receiving him as my guest when he happens to be on the journey?’ ‘Yea,’ said the Prophet, ‘receive him hospitably.’

—Auf b. Mâlik, TI.

[316]

Hospitality extends to a guest for three days, after which it becomes sadaqah (alms-giving).

—Abû-Hurayrah, AB.

[317]

Whoso believes in God and in the last day, let him honour his guest with all kindness; at the same time it is not lawful for a guest to remain with his host so as to make him sin (by his inability to treat him for a longer period equally hospitably).

[322]

The fire (of hell) is veiled by passions, and paradise is veiled by hardships.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[323]

The fire (of hell) is nearer to all who are deceitful, miserly, and reproach men with the benefits conferred upon them.

—Abû-Bakr, TI.

[324]

A man said, 'O Prophet of God! when is the hour of Judgement (to come)?' He said, 'Woe to thee! what hast thou prepared for it?'

—Anas, BU: MU.

The man said, 'And tell me about the hour (of Judgement, when it is to come).' The Prophet said, 'The man of whom it is questioned has no more knowledge (of it) than the man who questions (him).'

—Yahyâ b. Ya'mur, BU: MU: TI.

Whoso leaves (fashionable) garments by way of humility while it is in his power (to wear them), God will call him, on the day of resurrection, at the head of all creation, and reward him exceedingly.

—Mu'adh b. Anas, TI.

He who humbles himself for (the sake of) God, him will God exalt: he is small in his own mind, and great in the eyes of the people. And he who is proud and haughty, God will render him contemptible, and he is small in the eyes of the people and great in his own mind, so that he becomes more contemptible to them than a dog or a swine.

—'Umar, BA.

Ye shall find the double-faced, who come to these with one face, and come to the others with another face, to be the worst of men, in the sight of God, on the day of resurrection.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU: AB: TI: MÂ.

[329]

He who wears two faces in this world, shall have two tongues of fire on the day of resurrection.

—Ammâr b. Yâsir, AB: DÂ.

[330]

The signs of a hypocrite are three, although he fasts and prays and thinks that he is a Muslim: when he speaks, he is false; when he promises, he fails; and when he is trusted, he plays false.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

[331]

There are four qualities which being (found) in any one make him a complete hypocrite; and whoever has one of these, has one hypocritical quality until he avoids it: perfidy when trusted, lying when speaking, leaving in the lurch when covenanting, and wickedness when quarrelling.

BU: MU.

I only fear for this my people every hypocrite who speaks wisdom and works tyranny.

—‘Umar b. al-Khaṭṭāb, BA.

[333]

In the latter days there will come forth men who will deceive the world by religion, clothed before men in sheep-skin because of gentleness, their tongues sweeter than sugar, and their hearts the hearts of wolves. God says: ‘What! will they not be attentive, or will they falsely impute a crime to Me? I swear by Myself! I will surely raise up from among them a trouble from these (people), leaving the meekest among them in confusion.’

—Abū-Hurayrah, TI.

[334]

Say not to a hypocrite, ‘Master;’ for verily if he be a master you have angered God.

[335]

Verily, there is in the son of Man a violence of Satan and also a violence of the angel; then as to the violence of Satan, it leads him back to evil and to falsify the truth; and as to the violence of the angel, it leads him to good and to verify the truth; whoso then finds this, let him know that it is from God, and let him thank God; and he who finds the other, let him betake himself to God from Satan.

Ibni Mas'ūd, TI.

The Prophet said, 'There is not one of you but has a jinn* or an angel appointed over him as his guardian and companion.' They said, 'And over you also, O Prophet of God?' 'Yes,' said the Prophet, 'over me also; but God has helped me against the same, and it is subdued, and bids what is good.'

Anas, BU: MU.

[340]

God will be merciful to the man who uses indulgence when he sells and when he buys, and when he demands payment (of his debtors).

—Jābir, BU.

[341]

God pardoned a man, in times of yore, for that he was indulgent when he bought, and he was indulgent when he sold, and he was indulgent when he demanded payment (of his debtors).

—Jābir, TI.

[342]

Verily, God loves him who is indulgent in buying, and indulgent in selling, and indulgent in demanding payment (of his debtors).

—Abū-Hurayrah, TI.

There was a man, before you, to whom the angel (of death) came, that he might take away his soul. The angel asked, 'Hast thou done any good?' The man said, 'I do not know.' It was said to him, 'See carefully.' The man said, 'I do not know of anything except that I did business with men in the world, and I granted respite to those who were well-off, and I forbore with those who were hard-up.' Whereupon God made him enter into paradise.

—Hudhayfah and Abū-Mas'ūd al-Badary, BU: MU.

A man bought the fruit of a garden and worked for it, and lived therein: but at last he found that he was a loser. Then he asked the lord of the garden either to remit to him (part of what he had paid him) or to cancel the contract; but the man swore that he would do neither. The mother of the buyer then came to the Prophet and told him all (that had happened). The Prophet said, 'Has he sworn that he would do no good?' The (former) lord of the garden heard of this, and came to the Prophet, and said, 'O Prophet of God! it is his (to adopt any course he may choose).'

There is no leader of ten men (or more), but will be brought forward on the day of resurrection with a collar (round his neck) until (his) justice will set him free therefrom, or (his) tyranny will throw him into prison.

—Abû-Hurayrah; DÂ: cf. Abû Umâmah, BA.

[366]

The most beloved of men in the sight of God, on the day of resurrection, and the nearest to Him, in regard to seat, shall be the just leader; and the most hateful of men, in the sight of God, on the day of resurrection, and the farthest removed from him in regard to seat, shall be the tyrannical leader.

—Abu-Sa'îd, TI.

[367]

Whoso has been made a guardian over the affairs of men in anything, and then shuts his door against the Muslims, or those who have been wronged, or those who stand in need (of his help), God will shut the doors of His mercy against him in his (time of) need and poverty, when he shall stand most in need of him.

—Abu'sh-Shamah al-Azdy, BA.

[368]

Verily the just shall be near God on pulpits of light, on the right hand of the Merciful (God): those who are just in the exercise of their authority, and to their people, and to those over whom they are made guardians.

—‘Abdu’llāh b. al-‘Ās, MU: NA.

[369]

There are three classes of judges: one who recognizes the right, and decides accordingly—this man goes to paradise; the other who recognizes the right but goes in for wrong in his decision—this man goes to hell; and the third who decides the cases of men in ignorance—he also goes to hell.

—Buraydah, AB.

[370]

When the judge strives (to know the right), and finds it out, he has two rewards; and if he strives but makes a mistake, yet has he one reward.

—‘Amrū b. al-‘Ās, BU: MU: AB.

[371]

When a judge gives judgement, and considers well, and hits on the right thing, he has two rewards; and when he gives judgement and considers well, but makes a mistake, yet has he one reward.

[375]

The Prophet decided that both parties in a suit should sit before the judge.

—Ibnū’z-Zubayr, AB.

The Prophet decided a cause between two men; when they were about to leave, the defendant said, ‘God is enough for me, and (He is) a good guardian!’ The Prophet said, “Verily God reproaches weakness, and upon thee lies to be wide awake; if yet there be a matter in which thou canst not help, say thou, ‘God is enough for me, and (He is) a good guardian.’”

—‘Auf b. Malik, AB

I am only a man: and ye bring your disputes to me; it may be that one of you has a better way of bringing home his own argument than the other, and I decide in his favour in accordance with what I have heard; but he in whose favour I (so) decide a thing in respect of the right of his brother, it is for him only a part of the fire of hell. Let him then (who will), follow it up, or let him forego it.

The rights of the elder brother upon the younger of them are like the rights of the parent upon his or her child.

—Sa'id b. al-Âs, BA

Know your relations, so that ye may fulfil your duty to your kinsmen; and your duty towards your kinsmen is love for your family which will increase your wealth and lengthen your life.

—Abū-Hurayrah, TI.

A man said, 'O Prophet of God! have relatives whom I regard although they disregard me, and I do good to them though they do evil to me, and I am mild to them though they are brutal to me.' The Prophet said, 'If thou art as thou dost say, it is as though thou dost give them pills of hot ashes, and thou shalt continue to have with thee (a helper) from God to back thee up against them, so long as thou dost act thereon.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

[398]

He does not regard (the ties of blood) who does corresponding (acts of goodness), but he does indeed regard who regards (the ties) when his ties are disregarded.

—Ibni 'Umar, BU.

No one who cuts asunder the ties of blood shall enter paradise.

Alms bestowed upon a poor man has one merit, and that spent upon a relative has a two-fold merit.

Salmân b. 'Âmir, NA.

[401]

Of all the dînârs which thou dost expend in the way of God, and in (freeing) the necks (of men from servitude), and for the poor, and for thy people, the greatest in (point of) reward is that which thou dost expend upon thy own people.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

[402]

I said, 'O Prophet of God! shall I have any reward for what I spend upon the children of Abû-Salamah when they are only my children?' The Prophet said, 'Spend upon them, for thou shalt have the regard of what thou dost spend upon them.'

—Ummi Salamah, BU: MU.

[403]

Almsgiving to a poor man has one merit, and that to him who is related by blood has two, namely, that of charity and gift.

[404]

Abû-Talhah, a wealthy man of the Ansâr,* had a beautiful garden at Madînah which he valued above all his possessions. This was situated opposite the Mosque, and the Prophet used to go into it and drink pure water therein. When Abû-Talhah heard the recital of the Qur'ân, Sûrah iii. 92,¹ he offered the garden, his dearest possession, as a sadaqah* to be used in the service of God, adding, 'And dispose of it, 'O Prophet of God! in whatever way God shows thee.' The Prophet said, 'Well done! that is a profitable possession, and I have heard what thou hast said; but I see that thou shouldst dispose of it among (thy) kinsmen.' Abû-Talhah said, 'Then I will do (that), O Prophet of God!' Abû-Talhah then distributed this among his kinsmen and the children of his uncle.

[409]

The Prophet of God passed by the market-place to a heap of corn, and thrust his hand into it; then his fingers felt damp. He said, 'What is this, O master of corn?' The man said, 'O Prophet of God! rain fell upon it.' The Prophet said, 'Why dost thou not then keep (the wet portion of) it above the (dry) corn, so that men may see it? He who deceives us, is not of us.'

Whoso seeks knowledge, it will be an atonement for him for what is past.

—Anas, TI; Sakḥbarah al-Azdîy, TI: DÂ.

[413]

Whoso seeks after knowledge and attains it, shall have a double reward, and if he attains not to it (yet) shall he have one reward.

—Wāḥilah b. Asqā', DÂ.

[414]

Do ye know who is the most beneficent? God is the most beneficent; then, of the children of Man, I am the most beneficent, and after me the most beneficent among them is the man who acquires knowledge and spreads it: he will come on the day of resurrection as a chief by himself.

—Anas b. Malik, BA.

The Prophet of God passed by two gatherings in his Mosque, and said, 'Both of them are (working) for good, but one of them is superior to the other. As to the one, they call upon God and eagerly (strive) after Him; so if He please, He may give them, and if He please He may withhold (His provision) from them; and as to the other, they learn wisdom or knowledge, and teach the ignorant; so these are superior; and I am only raised up as a teacher.'

—'Abdu'llah b. 'Amrû, DÂ.

The Prophet of God was asked about two men [who were of the children of Israel, one of them a learned man who observed the appointed prayers, and then sat down, and taught men good, and the other who fasted (all) day (long) and stood up (to pray all) night (long), which of them was superior. The Prophet said: 'The superiority of this learned man who observed the appointed prayers and then sat down and taught men good, over the worshipper who fasted (all) day (long) and stood up (to pray all) night (long) is as my superiority over the least among you.'

—Hasan, DÂ.

Verily, God Almighty, and His angels, and those who inhabit the heavens, even the ants in their holes and the fishes in their waters, bless the good teachers of mankind.

—Abû-Umâmah, TI; Makhûl, DÂ.

Whoso walks in the path seeking knowledge thereby, God will make him walk in the paths of paradise; and verily, the angels spread out their wings out of pleasure for the seeker after knowledge; and verily those who are in the heavens and the earth, and fishes also in the midst of water, all ask pardon for him; and, verily, the excellence of a learned man over a mere worshipper, is as the excellence of the full moon over the stars. And, verily, the learned men are the inheritors of the prophets; for verily, the prophets' heritage are not dīnārs,* nor dirhams,* but the heritage of knowledge; whoso then receives this, he has received ample good fortune.

The calamity of knowledge is forgetfulness, and wasting it is to speak of it to him who is not fit for it.

The very worst of the worst are the bad learned men, and verily the best of the best are the best of the learned men.

—Alwas b. Hakim, DÂ

[429]

Verily, the worst of men in the sight of God in respect of rank on the day of resurrection shall be the learned man who profited not by his knowledge.

—Abû-Dardâ', DÂ.

Verily, God has revealed to me, (saying,) Whoso goes about in search of knowledge, I will speed him on to the path of the garden (of bliss); and he whose eyes I may have snatched away, I will recompense him for the same with the garden (of bliss); and superiority in knowledge is better than superiority in worship; and the root of religion is abstinence.

—Â'ishah, BA.

[431]

Whoso shall seek knowledge to show himself bold against the learned and to do mischief therewith to the simple-minded folk, and to turn the attention of the people towards him, God will make him enter into the fire (of hell).

—Ka'b b. Malik, TI; Ibni 'Umar, IB.

Verily, God does not take away knowledge from men, but takes it by taking away the learned ; so that when no learned men remain, men take the ignorant for their heads : they refer their causes to them, and they decide without knowledge, erring themselves and leading (others) into error.

—Ibni 'Amrû b. al-Âs, BU: MU: TI.

The man who is questioned about knowledge, and hides it (knowingly), shall be bridled with a bridle of fire on the day of resurrection.

[462]

No servant of God shows humility for (the sake of) God, but God will exalt him; and I tell you that verily the world has four classes of men: a servant of God whom He has provided with wealth and knowledge, and who fears God in respect thereof, and performs thereby his duty to his kinsmen, and knows that God has a right therein;—this man is the best placed; a servant of God whom He has provided with knowledge, but has not provided with wealth, but who is sincere in intention, and says, ‘O that I had wealth! I would have done the (good) works of such-and-such a one;’ and who is resolved therein; both these have an equal reward; and a servant of God whom He has provided with wealth, but whom He has not provided with knowledge, and who makes a mistake in regard to his wealth without knowledge, and fears not therein his Lord, and who performs not his duty to his kinsmen, and knows not any right of God therein;—this man is the worst placed; and a servant of God whom He has not provided with wealth or knowledge, and who says, ‘O that I had riches! I would surely have done the (evil) works of such-and-such a one;’ and is resolved therein;—both these have an equal reward.

—Abû-Kablah ^ʿal-Anmâriy, TI.

No one is born but upon the (right) constitution, the constitution of God whereon He has constituted men, but his parents make him a Jew, or a Christian, or a Magian;—like as the brute beasts bring forth whole brute beasts, (and then men mutilate them). [492]

The Prophet taught us the following marriage service: Praise be to God! we ask help of Him, and we ask pardon of Him, and we betake ourselves to God from the wickedness of our souls, and from the evil of our works; he whom God guides, none can lead astray, and whom He leads astray, no guide has he. And I bear witness that there is no God but God, and I bear witness that Muhammad is His servant and His apostle. O ye who believe! fear God with His due fear, and die not unless ye be Muslims. O ye who believe! fear God by whom ye beg of one another, and respect the wombs that bear you, verily God is watching over you. O ye who believe! fear God and speak words well-directed: He will dispose for you your works aright and pardon you your sins. And whoso obeys God and His apostle, he shall be blessed with a great bliss.

Certain prisoners of war came to the Prophet and behold there was a woman among them whose breast flowed (with milk) and who was running about (restlessly). When she found a child among the prisoners, she took him and clung to him, clinging,¹ and gave him to drink (of her milk). Then the Prophet said to us, 'What think ye? will this (woman) throw her child far away into the fire?' We said, 'No, when she has the power not to throw him.' The Prophet said, 'God is more merciful to His servants than this (woman) to her child.'

—Umar b. al-Khattâb, BU: MU

[506]

We were with the Prophet in one of his expeditions, when he passed by a number of people and asked, 'What are ye?' They said, 'We are Muslims.' And a woman was making a fire blaze for her kettle, and she had with her her son; and when the flame rose high, she prevented it from him. Then the Prophet came (to her)

She said, 'Art thou the Prophet of God?' He said, 'Yes.' She said, 'I'll sacrifice my father and my mother for thee! Is not God the most merciful of those who show mercy?' The Prophet said, 'Yes.' She said, 'Is not God more merciful to His servants than the mother to her child?' He said, 'Yes.' She said, 'Verily the mother would never cast her child into the fire.' The Prophet cast down his head, and wept; then he lifted up his head to her, and said, 'Verily God punishes none of His servants except the arrogant, the refractory, who rise in rebellion against God, and refuse to say that there is no God but God.'

—'Abdu'llah b. 'Umar, I.B.

The worst of men is he who is asked in the name of God, and does not give. Ask not in the name of God except of Him.

—Ibnî 'Abbâs, RA.

[520]

He whom God has given wealth, and who pays not its zakât,* his wealth shall be made, on the day of resurrection, into a bald-headed serpent having two fangs: it shall be put upon him as a collar on the day of resurrection; then will it seize his two projecting parts of the nether jaw, and say, 'I am thy wealth, I am thy treasure.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU.

[521]

There is no possessor of gold or silver who pays not therefrom its due but when the day of resurrection comes, plates of fire shall be made for him, and heated at the fire of hell; and with these shall be branded his sides and his forehead and his back; so often as these shall return to their former state they shall be prepared for him (again) for days whose measure will be 50,000 years, until it shall be (finally) decided between the servants (of God); then shall he be shown his way either to paradise or to the fire (of hell).

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

[522]

A man who points out the good, is like one who does it.

—Anas, TH.

[523]

—Abû-Mas'ûd al-Ansârî, MU,

[524]

—Sahl b. Sa'd, AB.

[525]

He to whom death comes while he is in search of knowledge to revive Islâm* thereby, between him and the prophets there shall be but one degree (of excellence) in the garden (of bliss).

—Hasan, DÂ.

[526]

Whoso calls (men) to guidance, shall have a reward like the reward of him who follows it without detracting anything from the latter's rewards; and whoso calls (men) to error, upon him shall be the sin like the sin of him who follows it, without detracting anything from the latter's sins.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU: AB: TI: MA.

May God endow with splendour and beauty (the face of) the man who hears anything from me, and then delivers it even as he has heard it! it may be that he who shall be told shall grasp it better than he who has heard it.

—Ibni Mas'ûd, TI.

[528]

When the Prophet sent any of his companions on a mission, he would say, 'Cheer the people, and inspire (them) not with aversion, and make (it) easy (for them), and make (it) not difficult (to them).'

—Abû-Mûsâ, BU: MU.

The Prophet sent my grandfather Abû-Mûsâ, and Mu'âdh, to Yaman, and said, 'Make (it) easy (for the people), and make (it) not difficult to them), and cheer them, and inspire (them) not with aversion; and work in accord, and dispute not (among yourselves).

—Abû-Burdah, BU: MU.

[530]

Tell people according to what they know. Do ye desire that God and His apostle should be rejected?

—'Ally, BU.

[531]

Verily, the likeness of the guidance and knowledge with which God has sent me is as the likeness of rain-water which falls upon the earth: the good part of the earth receives the water and brings forth much grass and herbs, and another part which is hollow holds the water, and God benefits men thereby, and they drink thereof and give others to drink, and till the ground therewith; and a part thereof falls upon another land which is high and holds no water nor brings forth grass. And that is the likeness of him who understands the religion of God, and whom that with which God has sent me has benefited, and who has learnt and taught it to others, and the likeness of him who raised not his head (to look at it), nor received the guidance of God with which I am sent.

—Abû-Mûsâ 'Abdu'llâh b. Qays al-Ash'arî, BU: MU,

I have left two things among you: ye shall not go astray so long as ye hold fast to them: the book of God and the example of the Prophet.

Eat and give alms and clothe yourselves without being extravagant or vain.

—Ibni 'Amrû, b. al-'Âs, BU: NA.

[534]

Wear your white clothes, for they are the best for you; and bury your dead in the same.

—Ibni 'Abbâs, AB: TI.

[535]

The Prophet has forbidden both the dresses—the most exalted and the meanest.

—Ibni 'Umar, RA.

I fell ill at the Farewell Pilgrimage, and the Prophet came to visit me. I said, 'O Prophet of God! I am suffering severely from the effects of illness, as thou dost see, and I have substance which I have none to inherit except my only daughter. Shall I give two-thirds of my substance in alms?' The Prophet said, 'No.' I said, 'Then one-half?' The Prophet said, 'No.' I said, 'Then one-third?' The Prophet said, 'Yes, one-third'; and one-third is (also) much: verily it is better that thou leave thy heirs rich than that thou leave them needy to beg of men; and thou shalt not expend anything seeking thereby the pleasure of God; but thou shalt (also) be rewarded for it, even what thou shalt put into the mouth of thy wife.'

—Sa'd b. Abû-Waqqâs, BU: MU: AB: TI: NA: MÂ.

[537]

Abû-Lubâbah proposed to give away all that he had in charity, but the Prophet said, 'A third out of that will be sufficient (for charity) from thee.'

—Malik, MÂ.

[538]

A man freed his six slaves at the time of his death, and he had no substance besides these. Then the Prophet recalled them, and divided them into three divisions, and cast lots for them (to free them); thus he freed two, and kept four, and said to their (master) a severe word.

—Imrân b. Husayn, NA: AB.

A man of the Ansâr* willed that his slave should be set free after his death, and he had no substance besides that. This news reached the Prophet, and he said, 'Who will buy this slave from me?' Nu'aym b. 'Abdu'llâh al-'Adwîy bought him for 800 dirhams.* He brought the amount to the Prophet, who gave it to the man, and said, 'Begin with thyself and bestow it upon thee, and if there be any surplus, then it is for thy wife, and if there be anything left after (bestowing it upon) thy wife, then it is for him who is of kin to thee; and if there be anything left from those who are of kin to thee, then spend it like this and like this.'

Faith has seventy odd branches, and modesty is a branch of the faith.

—Abū-Hurayrah, BU: MU: AB: TI: NA.

[544]

Verily, out of (many things) which men have conceived from the sayings of the former prophets (one) is that when thou hast no modesty, do what thou pleasest.

—Ibnī Mas'ūd, BU.

[545]

There is no shamelessness is a thing but makes it hateful; and there is no modesty in a thing but adorns it.

—Anas, TI.

[546]

Verily, modesty and faith are related to each other: when one of them is taken away, the other also is taken away.

—Ibnī 'Abbās, and Ibnī 'Umar, BA.

[547]

Modesty is from faith, and faith will be in paradise; and impudence is from tyranny, and tyranny will be in the fire (of hell).

Let no man look upon the hidden parts of a man, nor a woman upon the hidden parts of a woman.

—Abû-Sa'îd, MU.

Asmâ', daughter of Abû-Bakr, came to see the Prophet with a thin cloth over her. The Prophet turned aside from her, saying, 'O Asmâ'! when a woman reaches her age, it is not good that any part of her (body) should be seen except this and this,' (pointing to his face and hands).

—'Â'ishah, AB.

'Have shame before God with a true shame,' said the Prophet. We said, 'O Prophet of God! we are ashamed before God.' The Prophet said, 'It is not that, but to have shame before God with a true shame is, that ye guard your head and what it covers, and your belly and what it contains, and remember death and calamity; and whoso desires the hereafter, let him leave off the adornment of the life of this world and prefer the hereafter against the present. Whoso does (all) that, he is ashamed before God with a true shame.'

The Prophet was passing by a woman who was weeping near a grave, and said, 'Fear God, and be patient.' She said, 'Away from me! my calamity has not befallen thee, and thou dost not know it.' The woman was afterwards told that it was the Prophet; whereupon she came to the door of the Prophet where she found no door-keeper. She said to the Prophet, 'I did not know thee, O Prophet of God!' The Prophet said, 'Patience is only (becoming) at the first (stroke) of grief.'

—Anas, BU: MU,

[555]

O son of Man! if thou art patient, and dost hope for Divine requital at the first (stroke) of grief, there is no land which thou mayest have for (thy) recompense except paradise.

—Abû-Umâmah, IB.

[556]

We went with the Prophet to Abû-Sayf, the blacksmith, who was the husband of the nurse of Ibrâhîm, the Prophet's son. The Prophet took his son, and kissed him, and smelt him. Afterwards we went in to (see) him when Ibrâhîm was in his dying moments. The eyes of the Prophet flowed with tears; whereupon 'Abdu'r-Rahmân son of 'Auf said, 'Dost thou, O Prophet of God! shed tears?' The Prophet said, 'O son of 'Auf! these are a mercy.' Then he shed tears again, and said, 'My eyes run down with tears, and my heart is near setting, and yet I say nothing but what my Lord pleases; and verily O Ibrâhîm! I am grieved at parting with thee.'

—Anas, BU: MU: AB.

[557]

The Prophet wept over the dying Sa'd b. 'Ubâdah, and said, 'Do ye not hear? Verily God punishes not the running down of the eyes (with tears), nor the grief of the heart, but He punishes this (pointing to his tongue), or is merciful.'

—'Abdu'llâh b. 'Umar, BU: MU.

One of the family of the Prophet died, and the women assembled weeping over him. Whereupon 'Umar stood up to forbid them and to drive them away; but the Prophet said, 'Leave them alone, O 'Umar; for verily the eyes are running down (with tears), and the heart is bleeding, and the time near (and fresh).'

—Abû-Hurayrah, NA AH.

Zaynab, daughter of the Prophet, died, and the women wept (over her). 'Umar was going to strike them with his scourge, when the Prophet turned him aside with his own hands, and said, 'O 'Umar! (behave) with gentleness.' (And to the women) he said, 'Beware! and resist Satan.' Then he said, 'Whatever is from the eye and from the heart is from God and from mercy, and whatever is from the hand and from the tongue is from Satan.'

—Ibni 'Abbâs, AH.

[560]

The daughter of the Prophet sent for him, saying, 'My child is dying, so come to us.' The Prophet sent her his good wishes, saying, 'Verily, God's is what He has taken, and His is what He has given, and with Him everything is for a stated term. Be thou patient then, and hope for Divine requital.' Then she sent for him again, urging him to come to her; whereupon the Prophet stood up, and with him Sa'd b. 'Ubâdah, Mû'adh b. Jabal, Ubbayy b. Ka'b, Zayd b. Thâbit, and (other) men. The child was lifted up to the Prophet, his soul shaking with noise. The Prophet's eyes ran with tears. Sa'd said, 'O Prophet of God! what is this?' The Prophet said, 'This is a (portion of the) mercy which God has placed into the hearts of His servants who are merciful.'

—Uṣāmah b. Zayd, BU: MU.

[561]

No man dies and his mourners mourn for him, crying aloud, 'O the protector!' 'O the lord!' or the like, but God appoints two angels who beat him and say, 'Wert thou like that?'

—Abū-Mūsā, TI.

[562]

God never raised up a prophet but tended sheep. A man said, 'And thou also, O Prophet of God?' He said, 'Yes; I also tended the sheep of the people of Makkah for a few qirāts.'

—Abū-Hurayrah, BU: MĀ.

Verily, [the likeness of myself and the likeness of that with which God has sent me is as the likeness of a man who comes to his people, and says, 'Verily I have seen with my own eyes a large army (coming to attack you), and I am an urgent warner; so save yourselves;'] a part of his people obeyed him, and left by night and arrived at their place of safety, and they were saved; and a part of them called it a lie, and awoke in their places in the morning, and the army came upon them in the morning; and destroyed them, and annihilated them. That is the likeness of him who obeys me, and follows what I have brought to him, and the likeness of him who rebels against me and calls (the truth) which I have brought to him a lie.

—Abû-Mûsâ 'Abdu'llâh b. Qays al-Ash'arîy, BU: MU.

[564]

By my father and mother! I never saw a teacher, either before or after him, who taught better than the Prophet. By God! he never looked severe, nor chastised, nor reviled.

[565]

The Prophet would never save anything for the morrow.

—Anas, TI.

[566]

If I had (a heap of) gold like (Mount) Uhâd, it would have given me pleasure not to have allowed three (successive) nights to pass over me when I should have anything of it (left) to me, except a part which I would have used (to pay) for my debt.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU.

The Prophet departed from the world but never had his fill of barley bread.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU.

[568]

The family of Muhammad never had their fill of barley bread for two successive days till the Prophet was dead.

—'A'ishah, BU: MU: TI.

[569]

Even on the days when the family of the Prophet would get two mouthfuls of meal, one of these was sure to be of dates.

—‘A‘ishah, BU; MU: TI.

[570]

Many a month would pass over us when we never kindled the fire at the hearth; only dates and water would be our food unless we were given some flesh (then would we kindle the fire).

—‘A‘ishah, BU; MU: TI.

[571]

The Prophet would spend several successive nights without having anything to eat, and his wives also; and when he did have anything to eat, it was mostly wheatened bread.

—Ibni ‘Abbās, TI.

The Caliph ‘Umar, speaking of the extended dominions of Islām under him and of the consequent prosperity of his people, said that he had seen the Prophet restless from hunger the whole day when he did not find anything to fill his belly with.

—Nu‘mān b. Bashir, MU.

My Lord offered to make the broad pebbled of Makkah gold for me, but I said, ‘No, my Lord! rather (grant) that I may fill (my belly) one day, and be hungry (another) day, and that when I am hungry, I may humble myself before Thee, and remember Thee, and that when I am filled I may praise Thee and be thankful to Thee.'

—Abû-Umâmah, TI: AH.

[574]

I went to the Prophet with barley bread and some bad-smelling fat, and he had pawned his coat of mail with a Jew, and had taken from him barley for his family; and I have heard him say that a sâ' of wheat or any other grain did not last till the evening, although he had nine wives.

—Anas, BU.

The Prophet slept upon a mat, and stood up with its mark on his body. I said, 'O Prophet of God! would that thou hadst bidden us spread (a soft bed) for thee, and we had done (it)' The Prophet said, 'What have I to do with this world, when my relation with it is like that of a rider (on horseback) who seeks the shade of a tree, and then rests, and leaves it.'

—Ibni Mas'ûd, TI: IB: AH.

[576]

I have been subjected to fear in regard to God what none other has been subjected to, and I have been given to suffer in regard to God what none other has been given to suffer.

—Anas, TI.

[577]

When the Prophet heard anything evil of a man, he would not say, 'What will be the state of such-and-such a one?' but he would say, 'What will be the state of a people who say such-and-such a thing.'

—Ā'ishah, AB.

[578]

There is no Mu'min but of all men I am his nearest kin in this world and the hereafter. 'The prophet is nearer of kin to the Mu'min than themselves.'¹ Whichever Mu'min then leaves a substance, let his relatives that be inherit the same, and if he leave a debt or people of his household (for whom he leaves nothing), let him come to me, for I am his kinsman.'

—Abū-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[579]

In his journeys, the Prophet would remain in the rear, taking care of the weak, and seating them behind him, and he would also pray for them.

—Jābir, AB.

[580]

When the Prophet came to Madīnah, the people thereof were engrafting their palm-trees. The Prophet said, 'What are ye doing?' They said, 'We are doing a thing which we have been doing (ever before).' The Prophet said, 'Perhaps it were better if ye had not done it.' Then they left it; but the trees fell short in producing. This being mentioned to the Prophet, he said, 'I am only a man: when

[582]

The Prophet was more modest than a virgin in her closet; and when he saw anything which he hated, we could see it in his face.

—al-Khudrī, BU: MU.

[583]

The Prophet of God never touched the hands of any woman: he would only receive their oral pledge; and when they had accepted it, he would say, 'Now ye may go, I have received your pledge.'

—Ā'ishah, BU: MU: AB: TL.

[584]

I was never more jealous of any one of the Prophet's wives than I was of Khadījah although I never saw her, for the Prophet remembered her much, and many a time would he slay a sheep, and cut it into pieces, and send the same to the friends of Khadījah; and many a time would I tell him, 'It is as though there never was a woman in the world except Khadījah!' whereupon the Prophet would say (dilating upon her virtues), 'Verily, she was such-and-such, and I had children from her.'

—Ā'ishah, BU: MU.

[585]

Some pieces of cloth were brought to the Prophet, and among them a black square garment. 'Who do ye think I should clothe with this?' said the Prophet. 'Bring me the mother of Khâlid,' the Prophet added, and I was brought before him. The Prophet put this over me with his own hands, and looked to the signs on the garment, and pointed towards me with his hands, and said, 'This is excellent, O mother of Khâlid, excellent!'

—Ummi khâlid, daughter of Khâlid b. Sa'îd b. al-Âs, BU: AB.

[586]

An old woman came to the Prophet begging of him to pray for her entrance into paradise. The Prophet said, 'No old woman shall enter paradise.' This setting the woman crying, the Prophet said, 'Hast thou not read in the Qur'ân, "Verily We will make them of a (rare) creation, and We will make them ever-virgins, darlings of equal age?"' —Anas, RA: BG.

[587]

The last words of the Prophet were, 'Prayer! prayer!' and 'Fear God in regard to what your right hands have possessed.'

A Mu'min* is as an edifice to another Mu'min, being the (cause of) strength to one another.

—Abū-Mūsā, NA

[598]

The Mu'mins are as one man: if his eye complains, all his (body) complains, and if his head complains, all his (body) complains.

—Nu'mān b. Bashīr, MU.

[599]

The likeness of the Mu'min* in love, mercy, and sympathy to one another, is as the likeness of the body: when a part thereof has a complaint, the whole body responds to it by keeping awake the whole night, and with hot fever.

—Nu'mān b. Bashīr, BU: MU.

[600]

A Mu'min* is a mirror to a Mu'min, and a Mu'min is brother to a Mu'min; he withholds him from his losing occupation, and watches him from behind him.

—Abū-Hurayrah, FI: AB.

[601]

The Mu'mins are (as) one hand against (all) who are besides them: the meanest of them may receive any one as a neighbour against them (all), and the farthest of them refers to them, and their expeditions refer to those who sit (at home).

—‘Amrû b. Shu‘ayb, AB.

[602]

The likeness, a Mu‘min* is as the likeness of a standing corn which the wind ceases not to blow down: even so trials cease not to fall upon the Mu‘min. The likeness of a hypocrite is as a cypress tree which bends not unless it is felled.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: TI; cf. Ka‘b b. Malîk, BU: MU.

[603]

The Mu‘min* is the abode of friendship; and there is no good in him who does not befriend nor is befriended.

—Abû-Hurayrah, AH: BA.

[604]

‘What thinkest thou of a man,’ it was said to the Prophet, ‘who works a good work, and people praise him for it, and love him for it?’ The Prophet said, ‘That is the immediate good tidings of the Mu‘min.’

—Abû-Dharr, MU.

[605]

The Prophet was asked which Mu‘min was the best. ‘The best of them in character,’ was the reply. ‘Which Mu‘min was the most intelligent?’ they asked. ‘He who most frequently remembered death, and prepared himself best for the same ere it alighted upon him,’ said the Prophet.

—Anas, RA.

'Who is the best man?' it was asked of the Prophet. 'The Mu'min who strives with his life¹ and his wealth in the way of God,' was the Prophet's reply. 'Who is the next (best man)?' 'The man living in a mountainous retreat, who fears God and keeps his evil from men.'

—Abû-Sa'îd, BU: MU: AB: TI: NA.

[607]

It is not lawful for a Mu'min* to forsake a Mu'min for more than three days; and if three days pass away, let him meet him, and salute him; then if the other responds, both share in the merit that they have in the sight of God; but if the other does not, he draws upon himself a sin; and in the hereafter he who leaves his brother for more than three days, shall enter the fire of hell.

—Abû-Hurayrah, AB.

[608]

The Mu'min* continues to be in the full liberty of action by virtue of his religion, so long as he does not descend to shed blood which is forbidden.

—Ibni 'Umar, BU.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[610]

The Prophet spoke about sickness, and said, 'Verily, when sickness befalls the Mu'min, and then God relieves him of it, it becomes to him a penance for his sins which are past, and an admonition for him in regard to the future; and when the hypocrite is relieved, he becomes like the camel whose master ties him up and unties him, and he understands not why he tied him and why he untied him.'

—Âmir a'r-Râm, AB.

[611]

How excellent the affair of the Mu'min: his affair, all of it, is good for him; and this is not the case with any one except the Mu'min; if prosperity attend him, he is thankful (to God), and if adversity fall on him, he perseveres patiently: so it is all good (for him).

—Suhayb b. Sinân, MU.

[612]

The most perfect of Mu'mins,* in point of faith, is he who is the best among them in manners, and the best among them to his womenfolk.

[623]

I said, 'O Prophet of God! what thinkest thou? if I meet a man from among the Kâfirs,* and we fight with each other, and he strikes with the sword one of my hands and cuts it, and then 'takes refuge in a tree, and says, "I submit to God," shall I kill him after that he has declared it?' The Prophet said, 'Kill him not.' I said, 'O Prophet of God! but he has cut off one of my hands.' The Prophet said, 'Do not kill him, for if thou do kill him, he will certainly be in thy place before thou dost kill him, and thou wilt certainly be in his place before he said the word he did.'

—Miqdâd b. al-Aswad, BU: MU.

[624]

The murdered man will come on the day of resurrection with the murderer, his forelock and his head in his hand, and veins of the throat running with blood. He will say, 'O my Lord! (this man) killed me;' and he will take him near the Throne (of God).

—Ibni 'Abbās, TI: NA: IB.

[625]

Hearkening and obedience are (enjoined) upon every Muslim man in regard to what he may like or hate, so long as he is not commanded to sin; but when he is commanded to sin, then there is no hearkening and no obedience.

—Ibni 'Umar, BU: MU.

[626]

When a servant (of God) accepts Islām,* and his Islām proves good, God writes down for him all the good he has done in the past, and blots out from him all the evil he has done in the past; and after that the reward for every good act (done by him) is (reckoned as) ten like it to seven hundred, and every evil is (rewarded) only with its like, unless that God passes it over.

—Abū-Sa'īd al-Khudrī, BU: NA; Abū-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[627]

All Muslims are sacred to Muslims: they are brothers and helpers to one another.

—Bahz b. Haktm, NA.

[628]

A Muslim is brother to a Muslim: he forsakes him not, nor speaks to him what is false, nor wrongs him. And, verily, one of you is a mirror to his brother; so if he sees anything hurtful in him, let him point it to him with his fingers.

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI.

[629]

A Muslim is brother to a Muslim: let him not wrong him, nor forsake him, nor despise him. It is evil enough for man to despise his brother Muslim. Everything that belongs to a Muslim—his wealth, his blood, and his honour—is sacred to a Muslim. Take care! let there be no commercial transaction against one another amongst you; but be ye all servants of God and brothers to one another. It is by no means lawful for a Muslim to leave his brother alone for more than three days.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU: AB: TI: MÂ,

[630]

It is not lawful for a Muslim to break with his brother for more than three nights, turning aside from each other when they meet; and the better of the two is he who first begins the salutation.

—Abû-Ayyâb, BU: MU: TI: AB: MÂ.

[631]

A Muslim is he from whose tongue and hands the Muslims are safe; and a Mu'min is he in whom mankind have an asylum for their blood and their wealth.

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI: NA ; cf. 'Abdu'llah b. 'Amr, BU: MU.

[632]

A Muslim has a four-fold duty towards a Muslim: to return his salutation, to visit him while sick, to follow his bier, and to respond to his call.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU: AB: TI: NA.

[633]

O company of those who have accepted Islâm* by the tongue, but into whose hearts faith has not entered! hurt not the Muslims, nor disgrace them, nor disclose their shame; for whoso follows up the disclosure of his brother Muslim, God will follow up his disclosure; and whose disclosure God will follow up, He will certainly expose him, although he be in the midst of his dwelling.

—Ibnî 'Umar, TI.

[634]

A Muslim is brother to a Muslim: he wrongs him not, nor gives him over; and whoso shall remove the wants of a brother, God will remove his wants; and whoso relieves a Muslim from a distress, God will relieve him from the distress of the day of resurrection; and whoso hides the fault of a Muslim, God will hide his faults on the day of resurrection; and whoso walks with a wronged person, so as to establish him in his rights, God will estab-

[721]

He who endeavours (to relieve) the needy, the desolate, and the poor, is as one who endeavours in the service of God, is as one who stands up (to pray all night) and does not relax and rest, and as one who fasts and breaks (it) not.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[722]

He is not a poor man who goes about for a mouthful or two of food or a few dried date, but he is the poor man who finds not wherewith to make himself independent, nor is he understood (to be so) in order that people might give him alms, nor does he stand begging of men.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU: AB: NA: MÂ.

[723]

The Prophet sent Mu'adh as a governor to Yaman, saying, 'Thou shalt go to the people of the book, and the first thing to which thou shouldst invite them is the service of God; and when they have known God, then inform them that God has enjoined upon them to give alms (zakât), which shall be taken from the rich among them and returned to the poor among them; and when they obey that (commandment), then take from them. And fear the prayer of the wronged, for verily there is no veil between him and God.

[726]

Let every one of you ask of his Lord all that he wants.

—Anas, TI.

[727]

A man came to the Prophet begging of him a rule of conduct. The Prophet said, 'When thou standest up to pray, pray the prayer of him who has taken leave (of all), and speak not a word which thou mayest have to repent of to-morrow, and gather despair in regard to what is in the hands of men.'

—Abū-Ayyūb al-Ansārī, AH.

[728]

Ask forgiveness and security of God; for, verily, none has been given anything better than security after certainty (of faith).

—Abū-Bakr, TI: 1B.

[729]

Ask, and thou shalt be given it; ask, and thou shalt be given it.

[734]

The key of paradise is prayer, and the key of prayer is cleanliness.

—Jâbir, AH.

[735]

God does not accept a prayer without purity, nor a Sadaqah* out of embozzled money.

—Ibni 'Umar, MU: TI.

[736]

Verily, prayer profits because of what it brings down, and what it does not bring down. Enjoin prayer upon yourselves, O servants of God!

—Ibni 'Umar, TI; Mu'âdh b. Jabal, AH.

[737]

Shall I inform you of a work which will raise you to degrees of excellence, and will purify you in the sight of your King, and is better for you than the giving of coins and gold, and is better for you than that ye meet your enemies and strike off their necks?—It is the remembrance of God.

—Abû-Dardâ', TI: MÂ.

[738]

No prayer of a servant of God is unanswered so long as he prays not for sin or to cut off the ties of kinship.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

[739]

Your Lord is bashful and mighty : He is ashamed of (His) servant when he lifts up his hands (in prayer) to Him to return them empty.

—Salmân, TI: AB: BA.

[740]

Ask God of His grace ; for verily God loves that He should be asked ; and the best of prayers is persevering patiently for its fulfilment.

—Ibni Mas'ûd, TI.

[741]

God does not cease to come up to a servant (of His) while he is at his prayer so long as he does not turn his attention otherwise ; then does God withdraw and turn aside.

—Abû-Dharr, AB: NA.

Call upon God being also certain of (His) response, and know that God responds not to the call of a negligent, careless heart.

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI.

[744]

When one of you prays, let him not say, 'O God ! pardon me if Thou please ; have mercy upon me if Thou please ; give me provision if Thou please ;' but let him carry firmly in his mind (what he asks), and let him be most eager, for verily God does not make much of a thing which He grants.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

[745]

I said, 'O Apostle of God ! give us permission in regard to castration.' He said, 'He is not of us who castrates or is castrated; verily the castration of my people is to fast.' I said, 'Then give us permission in regard to monasticism.' He said, 'The monasticism of my people is to sit in places of worship waiting for prayers.'

—'Uthmân b. Ma'ân, BG

[746]

Three prayers are answered—there is no doubt therein : the prayer of a parent ; the prayer of a wayfarer ; and the prayer of a wronged person.

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI: AB: IB.

[768]

When a man accepted Islām, the Prophet would teach him prayers, and bid him pray in these words; 'O God! pardon me, and have mercy upon me, and guide me, and keep me safe.'

—Abū-Mālik al-Ashja'iy, MU.

[769]

Verily, the hearts of the children of Man are, all of them, between two of the fingers of the (God of) Mercy even as one heart: He turns them as He pleases. O God who turnest about the hearts (of men)! turn our hearts so as to obey Thee.

—'Abdu'llāh b. 'Amrū, MU.

[770]

O God! make my inside better than my outside, and make my outside (also) righteous. O God! I beg of Thee righteousness in what Thou givest to men, namely, family and wealth and children, that they may not lead (me) astray, nor do Thou lead me astray.

—'Umar, TI.

[771]

O God! purify my heart from (all) hypocrisy, and my work from (all) show, and my tongue from (all) falsehood, and my eyes from (all) deception; for verily Thou knowest the deceitful of eyes and what (men's) breasts do hide.

—Ummi Ma'bad, BA.

[772]

O God ! let me profit by what Thou hast taught me, and teach me what would profit me, and give me increase in knowledge. Praise to God in all conditions (of life) ! I betake me to God from the state of the people of the fire (of hell).

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI: IB.

[773]

O God ! mend for me my religion which is the protection of my affairs ; and mend for me my world in which I have my subsistence ; and mend my hereafter to which is my return, and make my life a (cause of) increase to me of all good things, and make (my) death a (cause of) repose from all evil.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

[774]

O God ! grant me Thy love and the love of him whose love would profit me in Thy sight. O God ! make what I love, out of that which Thou hast provided me, my power in respect of what Thou lovest. O God ! make what Thou hast taken away from me, out of what I loved, (a cause of) my leisure for what Thou dost love.

—‘Abdu’lîah b. Yazîd, al-Khatmîy, TI

O God ! by Thy knowledge of the secret, and by Thy power over the creation, let me live so long as Thou knowest life better for me, and let me die when Thou knowest death better for me. O God ! I beg of thee thy fear in secret and in public, and I beg of thee the speaking of truth amidst pleasure and anger; and I beg of Thee an excellent way in poverty and affluence; and I beg of Thee a pleasure that fails not; and I beg of Thee a joy of the eyes that never ends, and I beg of Thee pleasure in (Thy) decree; and I beg of Thee repose in life after death, and I beg of Thee the delight of looking at Thy Face, and a passionate love to meet Thee without adversity to afflict (me), or a trial that may lead (me) astray. O God! adorn us with the adornment of faith, and make us guides, being (also) rightly-guided.

—‘Atā’ b. a’s-Sā’ib, NA.

[776]

O God! grant us a portion of Thy fear whereby Thou mayest intervene between ourselves and our rebellion against Thee, and Thy obedience by which Thou mayest make me reach Thy paradise, and the certainty (of faith) whereby Thou mayest make light to us the calamities of this world, and give us to enjoy by our hearing and our sight and our power so long as Thou keepest us alive, and make this state to succeed us, and appoint our revenge against those who wrong us, and help us against those who are at enmity with us, and put us not into calamities affecting our religion, and make not this world our greatest sorrow, nor the amount of our knowledge; and put him not in authority over us who has no mercy upon us.

—Ibnī 'Umar, TL

When the Prophet stood up to pray, he would say: 'I turn my face as a *Haniff to Him who originated the heavens and the earth, and I am not of those who join (other gods with God); verily my prayers and my devotion and my life and my death are of God, the Lord of all the world, who has no partner; and that am I commanded; and I am (one) of the Muslims. O God! Thou art our King: there is no God but Thou. Thou art my Lord, and I am Thy servant. I have wronged my own soul, and I confess my sin: so pardon me all my sins; verily, none but Thou can pardon sins. Guide me to be the best character: none but Thou can guide to the best thereof; none but Thou can turn aside from me the evil thereof. I am here and at Thy service. All good is in Thy hands, and evil is not attributable to Thee. I am from Thee, and (will return) to Thee. Glory to Thee, and to Thee is (all) greatness. I ask pardon of Thee, and I turn to Thee (in penitence).'

And when he bowed in prayer, he said: 'O God! to Thee I bow, and in Thee I believe, and to Thee I submit. My hearing and my sight, my marrow and my bone, and my muscles, are (all) humbled before Thee.'

And when he raised his head, he would say: 'O God our Lord! to Thee be praise that may fill the heavens and the earth and (all) that is between them, and that may fill anything which Thou mayest be pleased (to create) after (this).'

And when he prostrated, he would say: 'O God! I adore Thee, and in Thee I believe, and to Thee I submit: my face adores Him who created it and formed it, and cut open (into it) its hearing and its sight. Glory to God the best of (all) creators!'

Then he would conclude his prayer thus: 'O God! pardon me what has gone before and what, may come after, and what I may have hidden and what I may have done in public, and what I may have been extravagant at, and what Thou knowest (in me) better than myself. Thou art the First and the Last. There is no God but Thou!'

—'Ally, MU.

[778]

The following is prayer of the Prophet which he said over a bier: 'O God! pardon him and have mercy upon him, and keep him safe, and forgive him, and honour his entertainment, and make his entrance easy, and wash him with water and ice and hail, and cleanse him from (all) faults like as we cleanse white clothes of (all) pollution; and give him in exchange a goodlier abode than his abode (here), and a people better than his people, and fellows better than his fellows (here); and make him enter into paradise, and give him refuge from the torment of the grave, and from the torment of the fire (of hell).'

—'Auf b. Mālik, MU.

[779]

The following is another specimen of the Prophet's prayer over the dead: 'O God! pardon the living among us and the dead among us, and those who are present of us, and those who are absent of us, and the younger among us, and the elder among us, and the male among us, and the female among us. O God! he whom Thou makest to live among us, make him to live according to Islām, and he whom Thou dost take away from us, take him away while upon the faith.

[788]

When my people will walk about proudly, and the children of kings—the children of Persia and Rome—will serve them, God will put their bad men in authority over their best.

—Ibnī ‘Umar, TI.

[789]

Whoever has pride in his heart, of the weight of an atom, shall not enter paradise. A man said, 'But if one like to have good clothes and good shoes?' The Prophet said, 'God is beautiful, and loves beauty. Pride is rejecting the truth, and despising men.'

—Ibni Mas'ad, MU: AB: TI.

[790]

This your descent is no cause of reviling any one: all of you are the children of Man, near (to one another) as sâ' to sâ', which none (of you) fill: no one has any superiority over another unless by virtue of (his) religion and piety. It is (evil) enough for man to be impudent, shameless, or miserly.

—'Uqbah b. 'Âmir, AH. BA.

A beautiful man came to the Prophet, and said, 'I love beauty, and I have been given it as thou seest, so that I do not like that I should be behind any one in respect of (even) the latchet of my shoes. If that pride, O Prophet of God?' 'No,' said the Prophet, 'but to reject the truth, and despise men is pride.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, AB.

[792]

Let all people who boast of their forefathers who are dead, desist; they will only be coals of hell-(fire), or they will become more disgraceful in the sight of God than a black-beetle which rolls on filth by its nose. Verily, God has now taken away from you the vainglory of (the days of) Ignorance, and its boasting of forefathers. Man is only a pious Mu'min or a wicked sinner. Mankind are all the children of Adam, and Adam was from dust.

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI: AB.

[793]

Whoso looks into the letter of his brother without his permission, he only looks into the fire (of hell into which he shall be thrown).

—Ibni 'Abbâs, AB.

[794]

Verily, ye are in an age in which he among you who shall abandon one-tenth of what is bidden, will be ruined; then will come a time when he among them who shall act upon one-tenth of what is bidden, will be saved.

[799]

No nation went astray after guidance which they had unless they were given to dispute (among themselves).

—Abû-Umâmah, TI: IB: AH.

[800]

The Prophet of God came out to (meet) us while we were disputing about the decree of God, and he was enraged, so that his face reddened as though the seeds of the pomegranate were pressed upon his cheeks, and he said, ‘What ! have ye been commanded to do this, or was I sent to you with this ? Those who were before you perished only because they disputed about this affair. I beseech you, again, I beseech you, not to dispute about it.’

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI; ‘Amrû b Sâ‘u‘ayb, IB.

The Prophet of God was sitting in the midst of his companions, when a man rose against Abû-Bakr, and insulted him ; but Abû-Bakr turned a deaf ear. The man insulted him a second time, and Abû-Bakr took no heed. He repeated the insult a third time, whereupon Abû-Bakr retorted. Immediately the Prophet stood up (to go away). Abû-Bakr said, 'O Prophet of God! art thou angry with me?' He said, 'No! but an angel had come down from heaven to give him the lie to what he said to thee; but since thou hast retorted the angel is gone away, and now Satan sits (with thee); so I am not going to sit while Satan sits.'

[808]

I said, 'O Prophet of God! what was in the pages of Abraham and Moses?' He said, 'It was all admonition: I wonder that one should be sure of death and yet exult; I wonder how one sure of the fire (of hell) can laugh (inordinately); I wonder that one should see the world and the vicissitudes of its people, and yet feel secure therein; I wonder that one should be sure of the destiny of life and yet worry himself;—I wonder that one should be sure of the account (he will have to render before God) and yet not work (good).'

—Abû-Dharr, RA.

[809]

O Abû-Dharr! be on thy guard against weakness;—and I love for thee what I love for myself: never judge between two men, and never take charge of the substance of orphans.

—Abû-Dharr, AB: NA.

[810]

By God! if ye had known what I know, ye would surely laugh little and weep much, and not enjoy the society of women on carpets, and ye would surely go out into the mountains crying to God.

[811]

The Prophet of God stroked upon my shoulders with his hands, and said, 'Thou shalt fare well, O Qudaym! when thou art dead, for thou hast not been a governor or a secretary or a lieutenant.'

—Miqdâm b. Ma'dikarib, AB.

[812]

A man shall be asked concerning five (things) on the day of resurrection: concerning his life, how he spent it; concerning his youth, how he grew old; concerning his wealth, whence he acquired it and in what (way) he spent it; and what was it that he did in, with the knowledge that he had.

—Ibni Mas'ûd, TI.

[813]

I said, 'O Prophet of God! why dost thou not appoint me an officer?' The Prophet stroked his hands upon my shoulders, and said, 'O Abû-Dharr! thou art a weak man, and this is a trust; and verily on the day of resurrection it shall be a (cause of) disgrace and contrition, except to him who has held it as it ought to be held, and has fulfilled it as it was his duty to fulfil.'

—Abû-Dharr, MU: AB.

[814]

I went to the Prophet in company with two of my nephews: one of them said, 'O Prophet of God ! appoint us (governors) over a part of what God has given thee to rule.' The other also said the same thing. Whereupon the Prophet said, 'By God ! I do not appoint him an officer who asks for it, or any one who covets it.'

—Abū-Mūsā, BU: MU: AB: NA.

[815]

Take care ! each of you is a governor, and each of you shall be asked concerning his subjects : a leader is governor over (his) people, and he shall be asked concerning his subjects ; and a man is governor over the people of his house, and he shall be asked concerning his subjects ; and a woman is governess over the house of her husband, and over his children, and she shall be asked concerning them ; and the slave of a man is governor over the substance of his master, and he shall be asked concerning it. Take care, then, each of you is a governor, and each of you shall be asked concerning his subjects.

—Ibnī 'Umar, BU: MU: AB: TI.

[817]

Whoso sets a good example in Islâm shall have his own reward and the reward of him who shall act upon it after him, without detracting anything from the latter's rewards; and whoso sets a bad example in Islâm, its burden shall lie upon him as also the burden of him who shall act upon it after him, without detracting anything from the latter's burden.

—Jarir, MU.

[818]

I never saw the Prophet referred to in any case relating to retaliation but he commanded forgiveness therein.

—Anas, AB: NA.

[819]

A case in which a man had killed another was referred to the Prophet. He made the man over to the nearest kinsman of the murdered man; but the man said, 'I did not desire to kill him.' The Prophet said, 'Take care! if he speaks the truth, and thou dost kill him, thou wilt enter the fire of hell.' Then the man let him go free.

—Abû-Hurayrah, AB: NA: IB.

A man came to the Prophet with another man, and said, 'This man has killed my brother.' The Prophet said, 'Go, and kill him as he killed thy brother' The murderer said to the man, 'Fear God, and forgive me, for it would be better for thee in respect of reward, and better for thee and for thy brother on the day of resurrection.' Then the man let him go. Afterwards when the Prophet was told what the murderer had said, he remarked, 'It (retaliation) were better for him than what the murdered man would do to him on the day of resurrection. Then would he say, 'O my Lord! ask this man why he killed me.'

—Buraydah, NA.

A man came to the Prophet bringing with him another man whom he had bound in a broad twisted strap, and said, 'O Prophet of God! this man has killed my brother.' The Prophet said, 'Hast thou killed him?' The man said, 'If he confess it not, I will bring evidence against him.' The man said, 'Yes, I killed him.' The Prophet said, 'And how?' He said, 'He and myself were beating down leaves from a tree, when he abused me and put me into a rage; so I struck him on his forehead with my axe, and killed him; but I had no desire to kill him.' The Prophet said to him, 'Hast thou anything with which thou mayest pay the blood-money for thyself?' He said, 'I have no substance except my outer garment and my axe.' The Prophet said, 'Dost thou see any of thy people who will buy thee?' He said, 'I am the vilest among my people for all that.' Then the Prophet threw towards him his outer garment, saying to the complainant 'Take hold of thy companion.' Then as the man turned to go, the Prophet said, 'If this man kill him, he will be like him.' Whereupon the man turned back, saying, 'I have heard what thou didst say; but I only caught him with thy permission.' The Prophet said, 'Dost thou not desire that he should draw upon himself his sin and the sin of thy brother?' He said, 'Yes, O Prophet of God!' The Prophet said, 'Verily that is like it.' Then the man threw away his outer garment and let him go free.

Deception appears not in a people but God (also) casts dread into their hearts, nor adultery spreads among a people but there are numerous deaths also among them, nor do a people stint (their) measure and balance but (their) provision is (also) cut off from them; and no people rule unjustly but there is also bloodshedding among them; and no people break their covenant but (their) enemy is (also) placed in authority over them.

—Ibnī 'Abbās, MĀ.

[823]

Verily, God punishes not the general people for the doings of particular men, until they see wrongdoing in their midst, and having the power to be averse to it, are yet not averse; and when they do this, God punishes the people in general and in particular.

Affairs are of three (kinds): an affair the truth whereof is evident—follow this; an affair the wrong whereof is evident—avoid this; and an affair wherein there is difference (of opinion)—leave it to God.

—Ibnī ‘Abbās, AH.

[828]

Verily, God has enjoined many an injunction, do not then violate it; and He has forbidden many an unlawful thing, do not then draw near to it; and He has laid down bounds, do not then transgress them; and He has been silent upon (many) things, without forgetting (them), do not dispute about them.

—Abū-Tha'labah al-Khushanīy, DQ.

[829]

Whoso fears (to do wrong), he has already set out on his journey at nightfall; and whoso sets out at nightfall, he will reach his station. Know that, verily, the merchandise of God is very costly; and verily the merchandise of God is paradise.

—Abū-Hurayrah, TI.

[830]

An Arab of the desert came to the Prophet, and said, 'Teach me a work that may make me enter into paradise.' The Prophet said, 'Thou hast asked a great question although thou hast cut short thy speech. Set free (all) breathing beings, and set free the necks (of men from servitude). And love (thy) kinsman who wrongs thee; and if thou art not able to do that, then feed the hungry and give drink to the thirsty, and bid what is good and forbid what is wrong; and if thou cannot do that, then withhold thy tongue unless from good.'

—Barā' b. 'Āzib, BA.

There are seven people whom God will draw under His own shadow on the day of resurrection, when there will be no shadow except His: a just leader; a young man who has spent his youth in the service of God; a man whose heart is suspended in the place of prayer when he goes out of it until he returns to it; the two men who love each other for the sake of God, uniting thereat and separating thereat; a man who remembers God alone, his eyes running with tears; a man whom a woman of birth and beauty attracts, and he says, 'Verily I fear God;' and a man who gives alms and hides it, so that his left hand knows not what his right hand expends.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[832]

Shall I tell thee about the gates of (all) righteousness? Fasting is a shield, and almsgiving extinguishes sins even as water extinguishes fire; and the prayer of a man at midnight (also does the same).

And shall I tell thee about the principal affair, and its pillars, and the height of its principal part? The principal affair is Islâm, and its pillar the prayer, and the height of its principal part the striving one's utmost.

And shall I tell thee about that which governs all that? (Here the Prophet took hold of his tongue, and said,) 'Withhold thyself from (using) this (wrongfully).' I said, 'O Prophet of God! shall we indeed be caught up for what we speak by it?' The Prophet said, 'Beware, O Mu'adh! for what else throws men into the fire (of hell), upon their faces or upon their noses, but the harvests of their tongues?'

'Seek refuge in God against the Ditch of Sorrows,' said the Prophet. 'And what is the Ditch of Sorrows,' they asked. 'It is a vale in hell from which hell itself seeks refuge to God an hundred times a day.' 'And who shall enter therein?' 'The reciters of the Qur'ân who make a show of their works,' was the Prophet's reply.

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI.

[858]

The Prophet mentioned something (of strife and bloodshed), and said, 'That will be at the time when knowledge will depart (from you).' I said, 'O Prophet of God! and how will knowledge depart (from us), when we read the Qur'ân, and make our children read it, and our children will make their children read it, till the day of resurrection?' The Prophet said, 'Alas for thee! I considered thee to be the most intelligent man in Madînah. Do not these Jews and Christians read the Torah and the Evangel, and act not at all what is in them both?'

—Ziyâd b. Labîd, IB: TI: AH; Abu-Umâmah, DÂ.

The first of those who shall be called to account, on the day of resurrection, shall be he who has got the whole of the Qur'ân by heart, and he who has been killed in the way of God, and he who has an abundance of wealth. Then shall God say to him who has got the whole of the Qur'ân by heart, 'Did I not teach thee what I revealed to My Prophet?' He shall say, 'Yes, my Lord!' God shall say, 'And what hast thou done in regard to what thou didst learn therein.' He shall say, 'I was constantly at it in the hours of night and in the hours of day.' God shall say to him, 'Thou liest; and the angels also shall say, 'Thou liest;' thou didst only desire that men should say that such-an-one was a reciter of the Qur'ân: and that has been said already.'

And the master of wealth shall be brought before God; and God shall say, 'Did I not give thee an abundance of wealth, so that thou wast not in want of any one?' He shall say, 'Yea, my Lord!' God shall say, 'And what hast thou done with what I gave thee?' He shall say, 'I regarded the rights of kinship, and gave alms.' God shall say to him, 'Thou liest;' and the angels also shall say to him, 'Nay, but thou didst desire that men should say that such an one was a generous man; and that has been said already.'

Then shall he who has been killed in the way of God be brought before Him, and God shall say to him, 'What was it that thou wast killed for ?' He shall say, 'Thou didst bid us do Jihâd* in Thy way, and I fought, and was killed.' God shall say to him, 'Thou liest ;' and the angels also shall say, 'Thou liest.' And God shall say to him, 'Nay, but thou didst desire that men should say that such an one was a valiant man, and that has been said already.'

These are the three men who, of all creatures, shall be first sent into hell.

[916]

The dignity of a man owing to silence is better than sixty years of worship.

—‘Imrân b. Husayn, BA.

[917]

Whoso believes in God and the last day, let him speak good, or keep silent.

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI.

[918]

He who is silent is saved.

—Ibni ‘Amrû, TI: AH: DÂ: BA.

[919]

He who restrains his tongue, God will hide his weakness; and he who suppresses his anger, God will avert from him His torment on the day of resurrection.

—Anas, BA.

[920]

Speak not much, for, verily, speaking much without the mention of God is hard-heartedness, and verily the man farthest removed from God is the hard-hearted.

—Ibni ‘Umar, TI.

[921]

A man died ; whereupon another said, 'Receive the glad tidings of paradise.' The Prophet heard this, and said, 'And what shall make thee know (for certain)? It may be this man has spoken something which did not concern him, or has acted miserly in respect of what did not make him independent, (so as to forfeit paradise).'

—Anas, TI.

[922]

I am the third of two partners so long as one of them does not play the other false ; but when he plays him false, I depart from among them, and satan comes in.

—Abû-Hurayrah, AB: RA.

[923]

When, on the day of resurrection, God will gather the former and the latter generations, a standard will be hoisted near every treacherous man, who shall be known by it ; and it shall be said, 'This is such and such a treacherous man !'

—Ibni 'Abbâs, BU: MU: TI: AB.

There were three men of the children of Israel : a leper, a bald-headed man, and a blind man. God desired to try them ; so He sent to them an angel. He came to the leper, and said, 'What thing dost thou like best ?' He said, 'A good complexion and a good skin, and that the thing which men look upon as unclean (in me) go away from me.' The angel then passed his hands (over him), and his uncleanness passed away from him, and he was given a good complexion and a good skin. Then the angel asked, 'And what substance dost thou like best?' The man said, 'Camels.' Whereupon he was given she-camels ten months gone with young. Then the angel said, 'God bless thee therein!' and went away.

The angel then came to the bald-headed man, and said, 'What thing dost thou like best?' He said, 'A beautiful hair, and that the thing which men look upon as unclean (in me) go away from me.' Then the angel passed his hands (over him), and his uncleanness passed away, and he was given a beautiful hair. The angel also asked, 'And what substance dost thou like best?' He said, 'Cows.' Whereupon he was given cows big with young. Then the angel said, 'God bless thee therein!' and went away.

The angel then came to the blind man, and said, 'What thing dost thou like best?' He said, 'That God restore my eye-sight to me, and I may see my people.' Then the angel passed his hands (over him), and God restored his eye-sight to him. The angel (also) asked, 'And what substance dost thou like best?' he said, 'Sheep.' Whereupon he was given sheep that multiplied exceedingly, and brought forth young, so that each of the three men had a valley full of their own herds.

Some time afterwards the angel returned to the leper, and said, 'I am a poor man who have lost everything on my journey, and I cannot reach my destination but by God's grace; and I beg of thee, by Him who has given thee the beautiful complexion and the beautiful skin, and the substance, a camel by which I may reach my destination.' The man said, 'There are many claims (which I have to satisfy, and I cannot possibly attend to you).' The angel said, 'Methinks, I know thee: wast thou not a leper whom people looked upon as unclean, and wast thou not a poor man, and has not God given thee everything?' The man said, 'I have only inherited this substance from my forefathers.' Whereupon the angel said, 'If thou art a liar, God will bring thee back to what thou hast been (formerly). Then the angel came to the bald-headed man, and said as he had said to the former, and received the same reply; whereupon the angel said, 'If thou art a liar, God will bring thee back to what thou hast been (formerly).' Then he came to the blind man, and said, 'I am a poor man, a wayfarer, who have lost everything on my journey, and I cannot reach my destination but by God's grace; and I beg of thee, by Him who has restored to thee thy eye-sight, a sheep, that I may reach my destination.' The man said, 'I was before this a blind man, and God restored to me my eye-sight; so take away what thou pleasest, and leave (for me) what thou pleasest; for, by God! I will not to-day demand of thee anything which thou dost take for the sake of God.' The angel said, 'Keep thy substance to thyself, for I was only trying you (all), and God is pleased with thee and angered against thy companions.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[925]

Restore the trusts to those who trust thee, and deal not falsely with him who deals falsely with thee.

—Abû-Hurayrah, AB: TI.

[926]

Verily, the treasurer who is a Muslim and fulfils (his) trust, and who gives what he is bidden (to give) wholly and completely, and with a good conscience, is one of the two charitable men (who shall be rewarded for it).

—Abû-Mûsâ, BU: MU: AB: NA.

[927]

'When trusts are wasted, then wait thou for the judgement (of God to descend upon the earth).' It was asked, 'And how shall trusts be wasted?' The Prophet said, 'When affairs are committed to those who are not worthy (of them).'

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU.

[928]

Verily, truth is goodness, and goodness leads to paradise; and verily lying is wickedness, and wickedness leads to the fire (of hell).

Ibni Mas'ūd, MU.

[929]

Take care about truth and sincerity! for verily truth and sincerity guide to what is good, and goodness leads to paradise; and man continues to be truthful and sincere, and strives after the truth, so that he is written down before God as a truthful man; and beware of falsehood! for verily falsehood leads to wickedness, and wickedness leads to the fire (of hell); and man continues to be untruthful, and strives after the untruth, so that he is written down before God a liar.

—Ibni Mas'ūd, BU: MU: AB: TI: MĀ.

[930]

Whoso shall be sincere to God forty days, streams of wisdom will appear from his heart upon his tongue.

—Ibni 'Abbās, RA.

[931]

Avoid all things doubtful for those that are not doubtful; verily truth brings quiet, and falsehood doubt.

—Abu'l-JauzĀ', TI: NA.

[982]

Cursed is he who does the deed of the people of Lot!

—Abū-Hurayrah, RA.

[933]

Cursed is he who comes in unto a woman from her back parts.

—Abū-Hurayrah, AB.

[934]

God will not look upon the man who comes in unto a man or woman from his or her back parts.

—Ibni 'Abbās, TI.

[935]

The Prophet cursed the taker of usury and the giver of it, and the writer of it, and the witness to it, and said they were all equal.

—Jabir, MU.

[936]

Shall I tell you of the worst among you? He it is who eats alone, and scourges (his) slave, and refuses help (to the needy).

—Abū-Hurayrah, RA.

[937]

The worst of people are those who put wicked questions, so that they may thereby deceive the learned.

—Abū-Hurayrah, RA.

[938]

There is none more jealous than God; for that reason has He forbidden all filthy actions, both open and secret.

—Ibni Mas'ūd, BU: MU: TI,

There are three men whose adversary I will be on the day of resurrection: the man who swears by me and then deceives; a man who a freeman, and devours his price; and a man who hires a workman, and gets his services, and then does not fully pay his wages.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU.

[940]

Whoso intervenes with his intercession against an ordinance out the (many) ordinances of God stands in opposition to God; and whoso disputes with falsehood while he knows it, will not cease to draw upon himself the indignation of God, until he withdraws himself therefrom; and whoso speaks of a thing in a Mu'min* which is not in him, God will make him dwell amidst the pus of those in hell, until he withdraws himself from what he said; and whoso assists in a quarrel wrongfully, returns with wrath from God the Most High.

—Yahyâ : Abû-Râshid, AB.

Verily, God has disallowed you the disobedience of mothers, and the burying of female children alive, and has forbidden (you) covetousness, and has made talkativeness and much questioning and the wasting of substance hateful to you.

—Mughirah, BU: MU.

[942]

There are three men who will not enter into paradise: he who is refractory to his parents, a habitual drunkard, and one who reproaches with what he gives.

—Ibni 'Umar, NA.

[943]

There are three men to whom God will not speak on the day of resurrection, nor will He look upon them, nor will He purify them; and for them there will be a painful torment: an old adulterer, a lying king, a proud fellow.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU: NA.

[944]

The deceitful shall not enter paradise, nor the miserly, nor those who reproach (men) for the benefits conferred upon them.

—Abû-Bakr, TI.

[945]

Whoso dies while he is clear of three things, namely, pride, embezzlement, and debt—shall enter paradise.

—Thaubân, TI.

[946]

Fear to do wrong, for verily wrongdoing will be (a cause of) darknesses on the day of resurrection; and fear avarice, for verily avarice destroyed those who were before you, carrying them on to shed blood among themselves, and to make their unlawful things lawful.

—Jabir, MU.

[947]

The servant (of God) who will be of the worst of men in respect of place on the day of resurrection, is he who lets go his hereafter for the world of another.

—Abû-Umâmah, IB.

[948]

Verily, the worst of men in (the sight of) God, in respect of position on the day of resurrection, will be he whom people abandon for fear of his filthy actions.

—‘Ā‘ishah, BU: MU: AB: TI: MĀ.

[949]

He who lives in the desert is insolent, and he who pursues a game is negligent, and he who comes to the gates of a monarch will be in trouble, and no servant (of God) draws nearer to a monarch but is farther from God.

—Ibni ‘Abbās, AB: NA: IB.

[950]

Verily God hates three things in you: wrangling, wasting one's wealth, and frequent, useless questioning.

—al-Mughīrah, BU: MU: AB.

[951]

Avoid ye the seven destructive things: the joining (of others) with God; the killing of breathing beings which God has forbidden unless by right; the devouring of usury; the devouring the wealth of the orphan; the turning (one's) back on the day of battle; and the calumniating of chaste women who are believing (but) careless (in their behaviour).

—Abū-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[952]

Moderation in expenses is half livelihood, and the love of men is half wisdom, and good questioning is half knowledge.

—Ibni ‘Umar, BA.

[953]

There are two traits which are never found together in a hypocrite: good conduct and the understanding of religion.

—Abū-Hurayrah, TI.

[954]

Serve the Merciful (God), and give food (to the needy), and extend greetings, ye shall enter paradise in peace.

—Ibni 'Umar, TI: IB.

[955]

Shall I tell you of him who will be shut out from the fire (of hell)? Every quiet, good-natured fellowman.

—Ibni Mas'ūd, TI.

[956]

There are four things which when they are in thee, thou hast nothing (to fear) even if the world pass away from thee: the safeguarding of trusts; speaking the truth; good manners; and abstemiousness in diet.

—Ibni 'Amrū, AH: BA.

[957]

The Prophet was asked as to what would mostly make men enter into the fire (of hell). 'The mouth and the private parts (of men),' said the Prophet. Being asked as to what would mostly make men enter paradise, the Prophet said, 'The fear of God, and a good character.'

—Abū-Hurayrah, TI.

[958]

Whoso shall give me a pledge for (the right use of) what is between his two jaws and what is between his two feet, I shall guarantee paradise for him.

—Sahl b. Sa'd, BU: Tl,

[959]

Give me to understand six things out of yourselves, and I guarantee you paradise; namely, be truthful when ye say, and fulfil when ye promise, and restore when ye are trusted with (a thing), and guard yourselves from immodesty, and lower your eyes to the ground, and withhold your hands (from what is wrong.)

—'Ubâdah b. a's-Sâmit, BA.

[960]

Four are of the characteristics of the apostles: modesty, perfuming oneself, marriage, and brushing the teeth.

—Abû-Ayyûb, Tl.

[961]

Right proceeding, steadiness, and moderation are parts out of the four and twenty parts of a prophet's character.

—'Abdu'llâh b. Sarjâs, Tl; cf. Ibni 'Abbâs, AB.

[962]

Following the middle way, steadiness, and good manners, are parts out of the five and twenty parts of a prophet's character.

—Ibni 'Abbâs, AB: MÂ.

I said, 'O Prophet of God! enjoin upon me (a rule of conduct).' The Prophet said, 'I enjoin upon thee the fear of God; for verily it will best adorn all thy affairs.' I said, 'Tell me something more.' He said, 'The reading of the Qur'ân and the remembering of God, for that will be (a cause) of thy mention in the heaven, and a light for thee in the earth.' I said, 'Tell me something more.' He said, 'Upon thee is enjoined a long silence, for verily that would drive away Satan and be helpful to thee in the affairs of thy religion.' I said, 'Tell me something more.' He said, 'Take care that thou do not laugh much, for verily that deadens the heart, and goes off with the light of thy countenance.' I said, 'Tell me something more.' He said, 'Speak the truth although it be bitter.' I said, 'Tell me something more.' He said, 'Fear not, concerning God, the obloquy of the detractor.' I said, 'Tell me something more.' He said, 'Conceal thou in men what thou knowest in thyself.'

—Abû-Dharr, BA.

Blessed is he whose heart God has made pure for faith, and has made his heart perfect, and his tongue truthful, and has kept his soul at rest, and his character upright, and has made his ears hearing, and his eyes seeing; then as to (his) ears, they act (as) funnels, and as to the eyes, they are (as) receptacles for what the heart gathers and preserves; and blessed indeed is he who makes his heart grasping.

—Abû-Dharr, AH: BA.

[965]

Whoso believes in God and in the last day, let him honour his guest; and whoso believes in God and in the last day, let him be good to his neighbours; and whoso believes in God and in the last day, let him speak what is good or keep silent.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU: AB.

My Lord has bidden me do nine things: the fear of God in secret and in public; a just word amidst anger and pleasure, and a (middle) way in poverty and affluence; and that I perform my relative duties to him who cuts off all ties with me, and give to him who denies me, and forgive him who wrongs me, and that my silence be for reflection, and my speaking be for a remembrance (of God), and my eye (sight) be to take example, and that I bid justice.

—Abû-Hurayrah, IB: RA.

One day the Prophet said to his companions, 'Who will take (to heart) these sayings, and act accordingly, or teach him who will act accordingly?' I said, 'I will do it, O Prophet of God!' Then he caught me by the hand, and counted five (sayings). He said, 'Fear (to do) all forbidden things, and thou shalt become the best servant (of God) among men; and be pleased with what God has apportioned to thee, and thou shalt become the most independent of men; and be good to thy neighbour, and thou shalt become a Mu'min*; and love for men what thou lovest for thyself, and thou shalt become a Muslim* ; and laugh not much, for verily much laugh deadens the heart.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI.

[968]

Three men have a right to the help of God : the doer of Jihâd* in the service of God, the slave who desires to pay for his manumission, and the man who marries (a woman) desiring to live chastely with her.

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI: NA.

[969]

O 'Abdu'l-Qays ! in thy character there are two traits which God and His apostle love, namely, mildness and deliberation.

—Ibni 'Abbâs, AB: TI.

[970]

Wealth decreases not by almsgiving, and God only increases His servant in might by forgiveness ; and no servant (of God) shows humility for the sake of God, but God also exalts him.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU: TI: MÂ.

[971]

He who has a good character¹ shall have a house built for him in the highest apartment of paradise.

—Abû-Umâmah, TI.

[972]

All proceedings of a meeting are a trust except three : the shedding of forbidden blood, or sexual connexion which is forbidden, or seizing another's substance without right.

—Jâbir, AB.

[973]

The intelligent man is he who contemplates his self, and acts for what is after death ; and he is the weak man who makes his soul follow his lust, and desires from God what he fancies.

—Shaddād b. Aus, TI: IB.

[974]

Three (things) lead to salvation, and three (things) to destruction. Those that lead to salvation are : the fear of God in secret and in public ; speaking the truth in pleasure and anger ; and taking the mean in affluence and poverty. And those that lead to destruction are : the lust which is followed ; avarice which is obeyed ; and the wondering of a man at his own self—the last being the most grievous of all.

—Abū-Hurayrah, BA.

[975]

Shall I tell you about the best among you and the worst among you ? The best among you is he from whom good is expected and from whose evil (men) are secure ; and the worst of you is he from whom good is not expected and from whose evil (men) are not secure.

—Abū-Hurayrah, TI: BA.

Three people will be in paradise : a person in authority who is just, charitable, helpful, a man who is merciful, tender-hearted to all who are of kin, and to Muslims; and a chaste man trying to live chastely. And five people will be in the fire (of hell): the weak man who has no sense, who is among you a dependent, seeking neither house nor wealth; ~~and~~ and the deceitful who does not hide his avarice, and though it be a rap, he defrauds it; and a man who enters on the morning and evening of a day deceiving thee of thy people and thy wealth. And verily God has revealed to me, saying, 'Show humility, so that none may be proud above another, and none may rebel against another.'

[977]

I can swear for three things: wealth suffers not by charity; no servant of God is wronged, and bears it patiently but God increases thereby his honour; and no servant of God opens for himself the door of beggary but God (also) opens up for him the door of poverty.

—Abû-Kabsâh al-Anmâriy, TI.

[978]

He who visits a sick person ceases not to plunge in (the ocean of) mercy until he sits down; and when he sits down he is immersed therein.

—Jabir, MÂ: AH.

[979]

Whoso visits a sick person, a crier calls out (to him) from heaven, saying, 'Be thou of good cheer! cheerful thy walk! take thou a happy home in paradise.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, IB.

[980]

When ye go in to the sick (to visit him), cheer him up in his distress; for verily that would not avert anything but would improve his spirits.

—Abû-Sa'id, TI: IB.

[981]

When ye go in to visit a sick man, wish for him a length of life, for that will please him.

—Abû-Sa'id, TI.

[982]

Verily, vows do neither accelerate a thing nor keep it back.

—Sa'id b. al-Harith, BU: MU: AB: NA.

[983]

Whoso vows that he will obey God, let him obey Him; but whoso vows that he will rebel against God, let him not rebel against Him.

—Â'ishah, BU: AB: TI: NA: MÂ.

[984]

There is no vow in sinful things.

—Â'ishah, AB: NA: IB

[985]

There is no fulfilling a vow in which is sin.

—Imrân b. Husayn, MU.

[986]

There is no vow but in what the pleasure of God is sought, nor in disregarding (the ties of) kinship.

—Ibni 'Amrû b. al-Âs, AB.

[987]

There are two vows: one is what a man vows in obedience to God—that is for God, and it must be fulfilled; and whose vows to disobey God—that is for Satan in which there is no fulfilling it —Imrān b. Husayn, NA.

[988]

‘My sister has vowed,’ said one of his disciples, ‘that she would walk up to the Ka‘bah barefooted, but she cannot do that, and she bids me inquire of thee concerning her.’ The Prophet said, ‘Let her walk on foot or ride, for verily God has no need of thy sister’s walking.’

—Uqbah b. ‘Āmir, BU: MU: AB: TI: NA; Ibni ‘Abbās, AB.

[989]

A woman said, ‘O Prophet of God! I have vowed that when thou wouldst return safe from thy expedition I would beat the drum over thy head.’ The Prophet said, ‘Then if thou hast vowed, fulfil thy vow, otherwise not.’

—Amrū b. Shu‘ayb, AB: RA.

[990]

The Prophet saw an old man being led between his two sons, and said, ‘What is the matter with him?’ They said, ‘He has vowed that he would (thus) walk.’ The Prophet said, ‘Verily, God needs not this punishing of himself;’ and bade him ride.

—Anas, BU: MU: AB: TI: NA.

The Prophet saw a man standing in the sun, and inquired about him. They said, 'This is Abû-Isrâ'îl, who has vowed that he would stand in the sun, and fast, and not break it, nor come in the shade, nor speak.' The Prophet said, 'Tell him to come in the shade, and speak, and let him complete (his fasting).'

—Ibni 'Abbâs, BU: AB: MÂ.

A man stood up on the day of the conquest of Makkah, and said, 'O Prophet of God! I have vowed to God that if He gave thee the victory over Makkah, I will offer a short prayer of thanksgiving to Him in the Sacred Temple at Jerusalem.' The Prophet said, 'Pray here.' The man said the same thing again. The Prophet said, 'Pray here.' The man again said the same thing. 'Then,' said the Prophet, 'it is thy own concern.'

—Jâbir, AB.

[993]

War is deceit.

—Ka'b b. Mâlik, AB.

[994]

Of all men, the people who have faith abstain most from killing.

—Ibni Mas'ûd, AB.

[995]

On the day when the Prophet of God would meet (his) enemies (in battle), he would wait until the declining of the sun; and then he would stand up among his companions, and say, 'Never wish to meet (your) enemies (on the battle field), but ask God for protection; and when ye do meet them, then stand steadfast, and know that paradise is beneath the shade of swords.'¹ Then would he say, 'O God! who hast sent down the book, and drivest the clouds, and dost rout the hosts, do Thou rout these, and help us against them.'

—'Abdu'llah b. Aufa, BU: MU: AB.

[996]

When the Prophet appointed a commander over an army, great or small, he would enjoin upon him more especially the fear of God, and upon the Muslims who were with him, goodness; then would he say, 'March in the name of God, and fight with him who believes not in God; and march forth and defraud not, nor betray, nor mutilate, nor kill children or old men.'

—Buraydah, MU: AB: TI.

[997]

There are two sorts of warfare: then as to him who seeks the good-will of God, and obeys (his) leader, and spends liberally (towards it), and is kind to his companions, and avoids evil-doing, verily, his sleep and keeping awake has each its own reward; and whoso engages in it to boast of it, and to be seen (of men), and to tell (it) abroad, and rebels against (his) leader, and does evil in the land, verily he shall not return unharmed.

¹ Not on the bed of roses. Cf. Saying 323.

—Mu'adh b. Jabal, AB: NA: MA.

[998]

The Prophet of God was asked concerning a man who fought for bravery or fought for attachment or fought to be seen (of men), which of them was in the way of God? He said, 'He who fights that the word of God be exalted, is in the way of God.'

—Abû-Mûsâ, BU: MU: AB: TI: NA.

[999]

When the Prophet sent an army, great or small, he would tell them, 'When ye see a place of prayer or hear a crier calling (men to worship), then kill no one.'

—Isâm al-Muzanîy, AB: TI.

[1000]

The Prophet of God used to take his women-folk with him in his expeditions, and they used to nurse the wounded, and were given a portion out of the spoils.

—Najdah b. 'Âmir al-Harârîy, MU: AB: TI.

[1001]

I accompanied the Prophet in seven expeditions, and lived in the dwellings of men; I prepared food for them, and nursed the wounded.

—Ummi 'Attyyah, MU.

[1002]

I went forth with the Prophet of God in his expedition to Khaybar with five other women, and offered to assist men in the way of God by helping them with arrows; and we had also medicine with us for the wounded, and a drink of sawîq. Then when God gave the Prophet victory he divided the spoils between us as he divided among men.

—Hashraj b. Ziyâd, from his grandmother, AB.

[1003]

In one of the battles of the Prophet a woman was found killed; whereupon the Prophet forbade the killing of women and children.

—Ibnî 'Umar, BU: MU: AB: NA: MÂ.

[1004]

No one shall torment (another) with fire except God.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: AB: TI.

[1005]

When one of you fights, avoid (hurting) the face.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[1006]

I heard the Prophet of God forbidding to bind one in order to kill him.

—Abû-Ya'îâ, AB.

[1007]

The Prophet of God forbade plundering and mutilation —'Abdu'llâh b. Yazîd al-Ansârî, BU.

[1008]

Whoso purposely kills any with whom he is bound by a treaty, without real cause, God will forbid him paradise.

—Abû-Bakr, AB: NA.

[1009]

Whoso wrongs one with whom he is bound by a treaty, or injures him, or charges him with what is beyond his power, or takes away from him anything without the pleasure of his soul, I will argue for him on the day of resurrection.

—Safwân b. Sulaym, AB.

[1010]

The Prophet also divided the booty among the Jewish people who fought with him.

—Zuhriy, TI.

[1011]

Fear the prayer of the wronged, for, verily, there is no veil between him and God.

—Ibni 'Abbâs, BU: MU: AB: TI: NA.

[1012]

If thou hast excessive strength, do not injure the weak.

—Ibni 'Auf, RA.

[1013]

Seek me among the weakest of you, for verily ye are helped and given provision only for the weakest among you.

—Abû-Hurayrah, AB: NA.

[1014]

He who fulfils the wants of any one of my people, desiring to please him thereby, pleases me.

—Anas, BA.

[1015]

Whoso protects a Mu'min from a hypocrite, God will raise up an angel to protect his flesh on the day of resurrection from the fire of hell; and whoso inveighs against a Muslim for anything, desiring thereby his disgrace, God will confine him on the causeway to hell until he comes out (clear) of what he said.

—Mu'adh b. Anas, AB.

[1016]

He who comes to help the aggrieved, God writes down for him three and seventy acts of pardon, one of which makes amends for all his affairs, and two and seventy (go) to make for him degrees (of excellence) on the day of resurrection.

—Anas, BA.

[1017]

Whoso relieves a Mu'min from a distress in this world, God will relieve him from his distress on the day of resurrection; and whoso makes it easy for a man in straitened circumstances to pay his debt, God will make (everything) easy for him in this world and the hereafter; and whoso hides the faults of a Muslim, God will cover up his faults in this world and the hereafter. God is always ready to help his servant so long as the servant is ready to help his brother. And whoso walks in the path seeking knowledge therein, God will make easy to him the path of paradise.

—Abū-Hurayrah, MU: AB: TL

There are three things which if a man does, God will draw him under His own shadow, and will make him enter into paradise: kindness to the weak, affection towards parents, and doing good to the slave.

—Jābir, TL.

[1019]

There is trial for every people, and the trial of my people is by wealth.

—Ka'b b. 'Iyād, TL.

[1020]

Abundance of accidental goods is not riches, but the wealth of soul.

—Abū-Hurayrah, BU: MU: TL.

[1021]

'What is the best wealth?' it was asked of the Prophet. 'The best of it is a tongue that mentions (God), and a grateful heart, and a righteous wife, and assisting a Mu'min because of his faith.'

—Thaūbān, TL.

[1022]

There is no harm in riches, for him who fears God (in what he does); and for him who works piety, health is better than riches, and cheerfulness of disposition better than pleasures.

—AH.

[1023]

The Prophet said, 'Which of you loves his heir's wealth better than his own?' His disciples said, 'O Prophet of God! there is none of us whose own wealth is not dearer to him than his heir's.' The Prophet said, 'His wealth is what is gone before him, and what remains behind is the wealth of his heirs.'

—Ibni Mas'ūd, BU.

[1024]

The servant (of God) says: 'My wealth! my wealth!' but verily only three things are his out of (all) his wealth; what he has eaten and used up, or worn and worn out, or given away and acquired (as a merit); and what is besides these shall be gone, and he shall leave it for (other) people.

—Abū-Hurayrah, MU; cf. Mutarrif, MU.

[1025]

Whoso among you is able to benefit his brother, must do it.

—Jābir, MU.

[1026]

Envy not the wicked because of the bounty (of God towards him), for verily thou knowest not what he may meet with after his death; for him there is, with God, a killer who will not die.

—Abū-Hurayrah, BG.

[1027]

When a wicked man is praised, the Lord God is angered, and (His) Throne is agitated thereat.

—Anas, BA.

[1028]

'He is indeed a poor man who has no wife,' said the Prophet. 'What although he has plenty of wealth?' it was asked of him. The Prophet said, 'And though he have plenty of wealth.' 'And poor indeed is the woman who has no (help)-mate, although she be ever so rich!'

—Ibni Abû-Najîh, RA.

[1029]

Let no Mu'min hate a Mu'minah* : if he hate her for one trait in her character, let him be pleased with another that is in her.

—Jâbir, MU ; Abû-Hurayrah, MU.

[1030]

The best of you is he who is the best among you to his wife.¹

—Â'ishah, TI: DÂ ; Ibni 'Abbâs, IB.

[1031]

Admonish thy wife, and if there be any good in her, she will receive (it); and beat not thy wife with the beating of thy slave.

—Laqîf b. Sabrah, AB.

[1032]

Beat not the hand-maids of God.

—Ayâs b. 'Abdu'llâh, AB: IB: DÂ.

[1033]

And enjoin upon one another goodness towards women; verily they are married to you: ye have no power over them at all, unless they come in for a flagrant filthy action; but if they be devoted to you, then seek no way against them. And, verily, ye have rights over your women, and your women have rights over you.

—'Amrû b. al-Ahwâs, TI.

[1034]

Should I not tell thee of the best treasure of man? (It is) a virtuous woman; when he looks upon her, she gladdens him; and when he tells her (anything), she obeys him; and when he is absent from her, she watches his (interests).

—Ibni 'Abbās, AB.

[1035]

'What rights has a wife over her husband?' it was asked of the Prophet. 'That he feed her when he eats himself, and that he clothe her when he clothes himself, and not strike her upon the face, nor revile her, nor leave her alone unless in her own house.'

—Hakīm b. Mu'awiyah, AB.

[1036]

Hind, wife of Abû-Sufyân, said, 'O Prophet of God! Abû-Sufyân is a miserly fellow; he does not give me what may be enough for me and for my children, unless I take it from him while he does not know.' The Prophet said, 'Take what may be enough for thee and for thy children, in reason.'

—Ā'ishah, BU: MU: AB: NA.

[1037]

'What is the best woman?' it was asked of the Prophet. 'She who gladdens her husband when he looks up to her, and obeys him when he tells her anything, and who does not fail him in regard to herself or her riches so as to displease him.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, NA.

[1038]

Whoso has two wives, and does not deal equitably between them, shall come on the day of resurrection with half his body fallen off.

—Abû-Hurayrah, AB: NA: IB

[1039]

When thou comest from a journey, come not to thy women by surprise, until the woman whose husband is absent puts herself in order to receive him.

—Jâbir, BU: MU: AB: TI.

[1040]

The Prophet also forbade the people from surprising (their) womenfolk, lest they charge them for dealing falsely, and seek their weak points.

—Jâbir, BU: MU: AB: TI.

[1041]

When the Prophet returned from an expedition or a journey, and night befell him, he would never enter his house until it was morning; and even if he reached home just before the morning he would never enter it until it was morning time. He used to say, 'Wait awhile that the women may put themselves in order to receive you.'

—Jâbir, BU: MU: AB: TI.

[1042]

When God created Wisdom, He said to it, 'Stand up;' and it stood up; then He said to it, 'Turn thy back;' and it turned its back. Then God said to it, 'Come up (to Me) ;' and it went up (to Him). Then He said to it, 'Sit down;' and it sat down. Then He said to it, 'I have not created anything in (all) creation which is better than thyself, nor more excellent than thyself, nor more beautiful than thyself; by thee I take, by thee I give; by thee am I known; by thee I punish; by thee is success, and by thee is punishment.'

—Abû-Hurayrah, BA.

[1043]

Every man shall only be rewarded on the day of resurrection according to the measure of his wisdom.

—Ibni 'Umar, BA.

[1044]

A man who is present sees what the absent man sees not.

—Anas, MU.

[1045]

'Bearing false witness is equal to associating (another God) with God.' This the Prophet repeated thrice, and then recited, 'And avoid the abomination of idols, and avoid the speaking of falsehood, being *Haniff to God, not joining (anything) with Him.'¹ —Huzaym b. Fâtik, AB: IB; Ayman b. Huzaym, TI: AH.

[1046]

The world is a provision, and the best provision of the world is a virtuous woman.

—Amrû b. al-'Âs, MU: NA.

[1047]

—‘Auf b. Mālik al-Ashja‘ī, AB.

[1048]

I have left behind me no more hurtful trial for men than women.

—Abū-Sa‘īd, NA.

[1049]

A woman is all weakness; so that when she goes out, Satan looks at her with head up-lifted.

—Ibnī Mas‘ūd, TL.

[1050]

No man is apart with a strange woman, but Satan is the third among them.

—Ibnī ‘Umar, TL.

[1051]

Take care that no man sit alone with a woman, unless she be his near relative.

—Ibnī ‘Abbās, BU: MU.

[1052]

Join not with the women whose husbands are absent, for verily Satan runs into each son of Man with the running of (his) blood. They asked, ‘And what about thee, O Prophet of God?’ He said, ‘It also flows in my veins, but God has strengthened me against him, and has kept me safe.’

—Jābir, BU: MU: AB: TL.

[1053]

I questioned the Prophet with regard to a sudden glance cast on a woman ; he said, 'Turn away thy glance.'

—Jarir, MU: AB: TI.

[1054]

O 'Alîy ! do not follow up a glance by another, for thou mayest have the first, but thou mayest not have the second.

—Buraydah, AB: TI.

[1055]

The Prophet forbade men from walking between two women.

—Ibni 'Umar, AB.

[1056]

The Prophet would call women 'Glasses.'

—Anas, BU: MU.

[1057]

Take care ! verily good, all of it, with its diversities will be in paradise, and evil, all of it, with its diversities, will be in the fire (of hell). And work on, being also in dread of God, and know that ye shall be set upon your works ; and whoso shall have done an atom's weight of good, shall see it, and whoso shall have done an atom's weight of evil shall see it.

—'Amrû, SH.

[1058]

Verily what I most fear for my people are lust and long hope ; then as to lust, it turns away from the truth, and as to long hopes, they cause the hereafter to be forgotten ; and this world is departing, evanescent ; and the hereafter is approaching, nearing ; and each one of these has (its) children ; then if ye are able not to be the child of this world, do (it) ; for verily ye are to-day in the abode of works, and not of accounts, and ye shall be to-morrow in the abode of the hereafter and not of works.

—Jābir, BA ; cf. ‘Ally, B U.

[1059]

Ye people ! verily this world is an accidental (good) ; the good and the wicked eat of it ; and verily the hereafter is a true appointment ; therein will judge a just and powerful King, verifying the truth, and making vain the vain. Be ye of the sons of the hereafter, and be ye not of the sons of this world, for verily a child follows its mother.

—Shaddād, AN.

[1060]

None of you expects (any other) than richness leading into error, or poverty causing to forget (everything), or sickness ruining (everything), or weakness from old age making a dotard, or death coming on suddenly ; or the Hour (of judgement), for the Hour will be most subtle and most bitter.

—Abū-Hurayrah, TI: NA.

[1061]

‘Verily,’ said the Prophet, ‘out of (many things) which I fear for you after me, is the splendour of this world and the adornment thereof, which will be opened up to you.' A man said, 'O Prophet of God! shall good bring evil?' The Prophet kept silent for a while, and then spoke: 'Certainly good brings no evil; but verily out of (the many) vegetations which the spring brings forth is also that which, when the belly is puffed up with it, would kill, or nearly destroy; and verily this wealth is pleasant and sweet, and a good companion of the Muslim who gives out of it to the poor and the orphan and the homeless; so he who takes it by his right and lays it out in its right (place), a good help is that; and he who takes it without having any right (to it), is as he who eats and is not filled, and it shall be a witness against him on the day of resurrection.'

—Abû-Sa'îd al-Khudrî, BU: MU: NA.

[1062]

Verily the world is accursed; accursed is what is therein, except the remembrance of God, and what He loves, and the learned man and the learner.

—Abû-Hurayrah, TI: IB.

[1063]

The world is pleasant to the eye, and sweet; and verily God will set you up as (His) vicegerents therein, and see how ye would act. Take care! fear the world, and fear women; and let not the fear of men hinder a man from speaking the truth when he knows it.

—al-Khadrîy, MU: TI: NA.

[1064]

He who seeks the world in a lawful manner in order to abstain from begging, and to strive for (the maintenance of) his people, and for affection to his neighbour, shall meet God on the day of resurrection, his face (shining) like the moon of the full-moon night; and he who seeks the world in an unlawful manner for ostentation and pride and show, shall meet God, and He will be angry with him.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BA.

[1065]

Verily the highest distinction which the people of the world go in for is that of wealth.

—Buraydah, NA.

[1066]

What I fear most for you is a passion for wealth, and your greed, and your immodesty, and mischief-making that will lead you astray.

—Abû-Hurayrah, RA.

[1067]

Verily, this accidental good is a treasure, and for this treasure there are keys. Happy the servant (of God) whom He has made a key to good, a bolt to evil.

—Sahl b. Sa'd, IB.

[1068]

Once while we were sitting with the Prophet, Mus'ab b. 'Umayr came up to us: he had nothing upon his body except a garment which was patched with fur. When the Prophet saw him, he wept for him, now that he was reduced to this from his former affluence. The Prophet said, 'How must ye be when ye put on a raiment in the morning, and another in the evening, and a dish shall be served to you and another taken off, and when ye shall screen your houses as the Ka'bah?' They said, 'O Prophet of God! we shall be happier on that day than we are to-day: we should then be above want and more free for the service of God.' The Prophet said, 'Thou art more happy to-day than thou shalt be on that day.'

—'Ally, TI

[1069]

The love of this world is the beginning of all sins.

—Anas, AB: RA.

[1070]

The Prophet said, 'Can any one walk over water without wetting his feet?' They said, 'No, O Prophet of God!' 'Like that is the man of the world: he is not safe from sins,' said the Prophet.

—Anas, BA.

[1071]

When God loves a servant (of His), He keeps him away from the world like as one of you keeps away his sick fellow from water.

—Qatadah b. a'n-Nu'man, TI: AH.

[1072]

Verily, the steep path lies before you : no laden (soul) shall pass it.

—Ummi Dardâ, BA.

[1073]

Be thou in this world as though thou wert a stranger, or a traveller on the road.

—‘Abdu’lîlâh b. ‘Umar, BU

[1074]

The world is the abode of him who has no abode, and wealth is his who has no wealth, and he puts it together who has no wisdom.

—‘Â‘îshah, AH: BA

[1075]

A man came to the Prophet and said, ‘Verily I love thee.’ He said, ‘Look to what thou sayest.’ The man said, ‘By God ! I love thee,’ This he repeated thrice. The Prophet said, ‘If thou art truthful and sincere, then prepare armour for poverty : poverty certainly hurries more quickly to him who loves me than the torrent to its extreme limit.’

—‘Abdu’lîlâh b. Mughaffal, TI.

[1076]

There are two things to which the son of Man is averse : he is averse to death, whereas death is better for the Mu‘min than trials ; and he is averse to want of wealth, whereas want of wealth will be least reckoned with.

—Mahmûd b. Labîd, AH.

[1077]

When your leaders are your best men, and your rich men are (also) your liberal men, and your affairs are guided by consultation among yourselves, then the back of the earth is better for you than its belly.

—Abû-Hurayrah, TL

[1078]

The son of Man becomes weak from old age, but two things grow young in him; greed for wealth, and eagerness for life.

—Anas, BU: MU.

[1079]

The heart of the old man continues to be young in two things, namely, in the love of this world, and in the length of hope.

—Abû-Hurayrah, BU: MU.

[1080]

The Prophet seized me (by the hand), and said, 'Be thou in this world as though thou wert a stranger, or a passer-by on the road, and count thyself among the people of the graves.'

—Ibnî 'U mar, BU.

[1081]

Beware of the cry of the wronged! for he only asks God for his right; and verily God will not refuse the right of a rightful man.

—'Alt y, BA.

[1082]

He who claims what is not his is not of us; and let him take his place in the fire (of hell).

MU.

[1083]

God puts the wrongdoer off for a time, so that when He catches him up, He will not spare him.

—Abû-Mûsâ, BU: MU.

[1084]

Whoso sets out (to fight) against my people, striking the good and the bad among them, and leaving no Mu'min* among them, and who fulfils not his covenant with whom he has covenanted—he is not of me, and I am not of him.

—Abû-Hurayrah, MU: NA.

[1085]

A man shall be brought on the day of resurrection and thrown into the fire (of hell), and his intestines shall forthwith come out in the fire, and he shall therein turn round and round like the turning round of the ass with his mill; whereupon the people of the fire shall come out together, and say, 'O such and such! what art thou doing? Didst thou not bid us do what was good, and forbid us to do wrong?' He shall say, 'I bade you do good, but did not go in for it myself, and forbade you to do wrong, but went in for it myself.'

—Usâmah b. Zayd, BU: MU.

[1086]

Why should one of you laugh (at another) for what he himself does?

—'Abdu'llâh b. Zam'ah, BU: MU: TI.
